30 ARE KILLED, 120 INJURED IN INDIAN RIOTING

Violence Flares in Two Sections on Eve of New Congress.

FOE MAKES BRUTAL ATTACK ON GANDHI

Effort to Strike Mahatma Is Believed as Likely to Aid His Cause.

Karachi, India, March 25 (U.P.).—Violence broke out today at two places—here at Cawnpore, in north-central India—among the bitterly opposing political and religious groups, far from cooperation on the eve of the national convention of the All India Congress, convening tomorrow in Karachi.

Violence at Cawnpore, in the united provinces in central India, occurred when communal rioting broke out following an attempt by Hindus to force Moslems to close their shops in tribute to the men executed at Lahore. It was estimated that 30 persons were killed and 120 injured. Shops were looted and Europeans subjected to indignities. Two companies of British soldiers and extra police from Allahabad and Lucknow were requisitioned.

A brutal attack was made on the elderly Mahatma M. K. Gandhi, inspiration of the civil disobedience campaign against British rule, on his arrival in Karachi today. Bharat Sabha, member of a political organization opposed to Gandhi's passive, compromise tactics in his independence fight, struck savagely at Gandhi with the butt of a pole.

Saved by Pundit.

Gandhi, startled at the attack, was saved only by the timely intervention of the Pundit Malaviya, near him in the throng gathered to welcome him to Karachi.

The attack was regarded among delegates to the Congress Convention as likely to cause a reaction in favor of Gandhi and to bring many extremists rallying to his banner.

It was admitted that the opposition to Gandhi had been strengthened as a result of the execution of three natives at Lahore earlier this week, the young radicals feeling that Gandhi had lost prestige by his inability to get Lord Irwin, the viceroy, to intervene in behalf of the convicted men.

May Help Gandhi.

However, a general feeling appeared to be gaining headway that the loyalty of the majority of the congress delegates would swing toward Gandhi despite certain personal feelings that his truce with Lord Irwin had not been in line with their ideas of progress toward the goal of independence.

The concensus on the eve of the congress seemed to be that Gandhi very likely would overcome his opposition and achieve another personal triumph.

Upwards of 6,000 delegates have gathered for the convention in Karachi tomorrow, regarded as the most important meeting in the 45 years' history of the Indian nationalist movement. In addition, about 20,000 other members of the congress have arrived to listen to the sessions of the delegates.

Gandhi will ask for approval of his agreement with Lord Irwin, signed recently at New Delhi. If rejected, he declares he intends to retire from politics and go into seclusion.

The City of Karachi has taken on

STRUCK IN NOSE

B. AGEE BOWLES.

BANKER HIT ON NOSE BY TARDY DEPOSITOR

Three Charges Are Lodged Against Attacker of B. Agee Bowles.

The over zealous determination of a depositor to get a check cashed yesterday after banking hours sent him to the police station to have three charges lodged against him, leaving in his wake B. Agee Bowles, vice president of the Potomac Savings Bank, with a bloody nose and a pair of broken spectacles.

The prisoner said his name was Lawrence Callahan when he was charged with assault, drunkenness and disorderly conduct. He refused to give his age or address, according to police.

Mr. Bowles, who lives in Country Club Hills, Va., declared Callahan brushed past the watchman as the doors were being closed and demanded to have his check cashed. When his notice was called to the fact that the bank, which is at Wisconsin avenue and M street, was closed for the day, the patron allegedly struck the executive in the face with his fist. An employe then notified the Seventh Precinct station and the arrest followed.

Cumberland Curbs Wedding Soliciting

Racket of Piloting Couples in Gretna Green Brings Many Complaints.

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., March 25.—The practices of wedding couple solicitors have become such a racket that the police department has stationed Officer John Newhouse at the courthouse for an indefinite period. He is to stop street solicitors and running board jumpers on automobiles of visitors. Drivers of licensed taxicabs are not disturbed, and will be assigned couples in order of arrival, if a wedding guide is desired.

The street solicitors have become so bold that complaints are made by organizations in other States, especially Pennsylvania which sends hundreds of couples yearly to this gretna green.

The solicitor insists in piloting the couple to the courthouse and to a minister, and many visitors have complained to the police of their objectionable methods. Shoppers from other States, mistaken by solicitors for wedding couples, have also complained.

STIMSON GIVES VIENNA ACCORD DEEP SCRUTINY

Interest Here Lies in Its Possible Effect on U. S. Products.

AMERICA IS IN STATUS OF FAVORED NATION

Germany Is Told Henderson Advises Waiting for League Session.

(Associated Press.)

An intensive study of the proposed customs agreement between Germany and Austria was begun yesterday by Secretary Stimson.

Returning from a vacation, the Secretary of State turned his entire attention to the accord, but declined to comment on the position of this country.

The attitude of American officials is that the proposed accord is a delicate subject and that its possible political ramifications are of remote interest to the United States.

Officials have remained silent on even its economic relations with the United States, since any expression of opinion, even though it concerned only this country, might make it appear that the United States was throwing its influence for or against the accord and thus participating in a political problem toward which the American Government is anxious to maintain a hands-off policy.

Partial Summary Here.

The State Department has received a partial summary of the text of the proposed agreement from the American Embassy in Berlin, but there is insufficient information to shape a policy on the American course to be followed in the event it was found the accord would affect the unconditional most-favored-nation clause of the German-American commercial treaty.

A similar treaty was made with Austria, but, lacking Austrian ratification, is not effective.

Such a clause gives the United States as low rates on its goods imported into the other country as are enjoyed by any other country.

The principal point to be determined by the United States is whether it should demand similar treatment from Germany under the favored nation clause as would be accorded Austria under the agreement if it becomes effective.

Effects to Be Studied.

Some officials pointed out that considerable benefit might accrue to American manufacturers with plants in Germany under the accord since their goods now manufactured in Germany and exported to Austria under tariff duties would then be exempt.

Should the proposed accord result in widespread competition between German-made goods in Austria, admitted duty free, and American-made goods of a similar character subject to duty and thus throttled from the market, it appeared likely the United States might be forced to move to protect its exporters.

The study Mr. Stimson is making is to determine if American manufacturers and exporters would be greatly affected and if they should be protected.

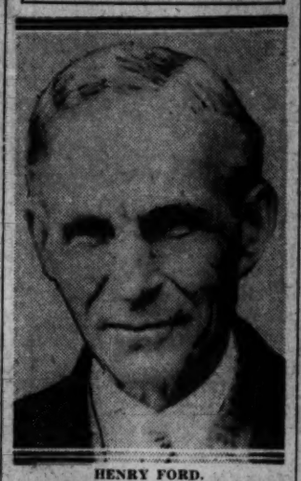
FIRM ACCUSED



HENRY FORD.

U. S. SHIPPING HURT BY FORD, IS CHARGE

Board Told Company Uses Foreign Vessels in General Trade.

(Associated Press.)

A memorandum charging the Ford Motor Co. with using foreign vessels in competition with American transatlantic lines was filed yesterday with the Shipping Board.

The charges, presented by J. Caldwell Jenkins, vice president of the Merchant Fleet Corporation, were considered by the board at its regular weekly meeting but no action was announced.

More than two years ago the board began an investigation to determine whether the Ford Co.'s freighters, operating between Atlantic and Pacific coasts through the Panama Canal, were acting as common carriers.

The investigation was dropped, however, when the company complied with regulations by filing its maximum rate schedules.

Mr. Jenkins, listing eight foreign freighters he said had been chartered by the Ford company between January 21 and March 11 of this year, explained he thought it advisable to bring the situation to the attention of the board, "as possibly Mr. Ford might be prevailed upon to improve his ways."

Mr. Jenkins said this caused the American companies to lose the Ford business and threatened the stability of the rate structure.

Officials expressed the opinion the board had no legal means to compel a change in the Ford shipping arrangements, but thought he might be requested not to carry general cargo on his chartered ships.

Mr. Jenkins said the Ford interests had excess space at their disposal and "are now soliciting other general cargo for Havre and Rotterdam in competition with our American-France and American Diamond Lines and at less than the conference rates." These rates are those agreed upon for certain zones on specific commodities.

"The extension of this practice can not help but retard the development of liner services," Jenkins contended.

The memorandum said the Ford company had chartered ships of British, German, Danish, Norwegian and Japanese registry.

New Activity Reported In Alaskan Volcano

Dutch Harbor, Alaska, March 25 (A.P.).—An unnamed volcano on the east end of Umnak Island 75 miles to the westward of here, was active today. So far there have been no casualties.

Volcanic peaks in the Aleutians and on the Alaska peninsula have been giving indications that a new period of activity has begun. Mountains which have been inactive for a number of years have been reported smoking.

CITIZENS FIGHT REMOVAL OF F AND G TRACKS

Speaker Denies Utilities Body Has Authority to Grant Permit.

RELIANCE IS PLACED ON CHARTER OF 1901

Capital Traction Company Meets Stiff Resistance in Plea for Buses.

Authority of the Public Utilities Commission to permit the Capital Traction Co. to remove its tracks on F and G streets, west of Seventeenth street, because the line was established under a congressional charter approximately 30 years ago, was questioned late yesterday by William McK. Clayton, representing the Federation of Citizens Associations, near the conclusion of an all-day hearing.

The challenge was made in argument opposing abandonment of the street railway section and the substitution of bus service after the afternoon had been consumed in testimony offered by the Washington Railway & Electric Co. and the Washington Rapid Transit Co. against the proposal of the rival street car line.

An attempt upon the part of John H. Hanna, president of the Capital Traction Co., to amend his petition so as not to infringe on territory which the Washington Railway & Electric Co. claimed was frustrated by the commission at the opening of the afternoon session.

Commission Takes Sides.

The commission, in fact, instead of acting as arbitrator after the street car line heads had apparently reached an agreement during the lunch recess, engineered the one-sided fight by forcing the Capital Traction Co. to adhere to its original proposal.

A somewhat prolonged legal discussion arose when Mr. Hanna explained that because of the failure of any proponents of the long bus route to appear at the hearing his company was willing to limit its request for a bus route to the territory west of Fifteenth street and New York avenue.

The so-called long bus route would extend from Twenty-sixth and F streets northwest to Fifth street and Florida avenue northeast, while the short route would go east only to Fifteenth street and circle the Treasury Department and White House, though in a different direction than in the long route.

Short Route Inserted.

While the commission finally permitted the short route to be inserted as an alternate proposal, the entire subsequent discussion was confined to the consequences of the long route.

A. G. Neal, vice president and controller of the Washington Railway & Electric Co., as the first witness, offered figures to show that the major portion of the proposed long bus route would be within territory served by his line.

William F. Ham, president of the Washington Railway & Electric Co., in subsequent testimony, called the proposal "unjustifiable, uneconomical and unsound." He referred to the small proportional revenue of the company and stated that the service within the area in question was inadequate for the facilities already in operation. Institution of the bus line, he said, would reduce the returns of his company without serving any useful purpose.

Transfer Is Discussed.

Harleigh H. Hartman, vice chairman of the commission, several times questioned witnesses on the practicability of establishing an intercompany transfer at Fifteenth street and

REPUBLICANS TO FIGHT CAMPAIGN OF 1932 WITH ATTACKS ON TAMMANY

Tammany Cleaning House as Quiz Nears

Two Men Already Have Resigned From Positions in New York City Department; Walker Is Fast Recuperating.

New York, March 25 (A.P.).—Tammany Hall today was engaged in putting its house in order—and hurrying to complete the job before the legislative committee, which will conduct a general investigation into the city administration, comes to town.

When Mayor Walker gets back from his vacation next week he wil find on his desk a report from James A. Higgins, commissioner of accounts, who last fall started inquiries into several city departments.

This report, it was said in Tammany circles, will be the basis of changes in some city departments. Two men already have resigned from the building department, Charles Brady, superintendent, and Rollin C. Bastress, his chief inspector.

"The commissioner of accounts and his men have been investigating the building department," said Samuel Levy, Manhattan borough president. "In fact, they are still working there."

Thomas C. T. Crain, district attorney, whose official conduct is being looked into at the order of Gov. Roosevelt, said of a report that he would step out April 1:

"That is an April fool suggestion."

Samuel Seabury, commissioner conducting the Crain inquiry, who will serve as counsel for the legislative investigation opening about May 1, heard witnesses in secret today. The commissioner is hearing testimony about Mr. Crain's disposition of evidence of food racketeering and of charges arising from the Pathe Film Co. fire.

Committee Will Charge Wigwam Plans White House Control.

ISSUE IS INTENDED AS DRY-VOTE MOVE

G. O. P. Intentions Are Made Known in Statement Given Out by Senator Jones.

(United Press.)

The Republican national committee intends to fight the 1932 presidential campaign on the issue that a Democratic victory would mean Tammany control of the White House.

Remembering the success which attended their emphasis upon Tammany and related issues in the 1928 election, the Republican high command has decided that discussion of the current municipal travail in New York is the best antidote for anticipated Democratic utilization of the depression, unemployment, the unsatisfactory farm situation and prohibition unrest as campaign ammunition.

By making Tammany an issue, the Republicans believe they can capitalize prohibition sentiment in the West and South without alienating anti-prohibitionists in the populous East.

This belief is based on the theory that Tammany is synonymous with the liquor traffic in the minds of prohibitionists, while many anti-prohibitionists object to other features of the New York machine.

Tammany Issue Used.

The Republican national committee built up the Tammany issue yesterday with a statement put out under the name of Senator Wesley L. Jones (Republican), Washington, ostensibly in reply to the accusation of Chairman Jouett Shouse, of the Democratic executive committee, that the Republicans hope to divert attention from administration failures by emphasizing the New York City scandals.

Mr. Shouse went no further Tuesday than to propose that the problem of purifying Tammany should be left to the people of New York, but Mr. Jones accused the Democratic leader of "defending Tammany" and conducting a "campaign of defamation of the President of the United States."

Mr. Jones suggested that Gov. Franklin Roosevelt of New York has been prevented by Tammany from taking drastic action with respect to the New York City government. Democrats claim this is an attempt to identify the New York machine with Roosevelt, who on occasion has been one of its enemies.

Attack on Hoover.

According to Mr. Jones, Mr. Shouse "has sought to cover up the shortcomings of Tammany by an attack upon President Hoover and by an ingenious plea that New York City be allowed to tame the tiger.

"As John J. Raskob's hand-picked assistant, it was to be expected that Mr. Shouse would thus undertake to camouflage the control which Tammany exercises over the national Democratic party as it is at present organized."

Again, according to Mr. Jones, "the tiger took over control of the Democratic national convention at Houston in 1928 and nominated one of its sachems as the standard bearer of the party. That control is still exercised.

Sachem Still Leader.

"The Tammany sachem still is the titular leader of the Democratic party and he exercised that leadership at the recent meeting of the Democratic national committee in Washington when spokesmen for Southern Democracy sought to head off a Tammany inspired plan to commit the Democratic party to a wet plank in its 1932 platform."

As a potential wedge to be driven between the Eastern and Southern wings of Democracy, the Republican statement quotes reports that Tammany recently served notice on Gov. Roosevelt that it would not permit him to win support for his presiden-

ENVOY OF ENGLAND FOR FLAG PROJECT

Patriotic Undertaking Has His Warm Wishes, Says Sir Ronald Lindsay.

Friendly greetings of the "Envoys of Friendship" to the children of England on their forthcoming trip to London and Paris will be warmly reciprocated. This is the assurance of the Hon. Sir Ronald Lindsay, British Ambassador to Washington, in his indorsement of the plan of the United States Flag Association to send, in cooperation with The Washington Post, two Washington high school children, one boy and one girl, on a goodwill trip to Europe. Winners of the trip are to be determined by an essay contest, now being conducted in the public and private high schools of the city, senior and junior, in which thousands of Washington boys and girls are participating.

In his indorsement of the plan of the flag association to send a group of American children to London and Paris as "Envoys of Friendship," Ambassador Lindsay, in a letter to Col. James A. Moss, president general of the Flag Association, wrote:

"I am glad to learn from your letter that the winners of the next flag project of the United States Flag Association are to be sent to England and France to convey to the boys and girls of these countries greetings of friendship from the boys and girls of the United States. I am happy, as was my predecessor, the present Lord Howard of Penrith, to send my warm good wishes for an undertaking of this kind, which contributes in a

DRY REPEAL IS VOTED BY ILLINOIS SENATE

Measure, Withdrawing All Support to U. S. Agents, Goes to Governor.

Springfield, Ill., March 25 (A.P.).—The Illinois Senate today passed the bill repealing the State's prohibition enforcement laws. The measure, already passed by the House, now goes to the governor. The vote was 26 to 24.

The bill, one of the shortest ever enacted by the Illinois Legislature, would repeal the State prohibition law and the search and seizure act. In effect, it would withdraw all State support from the Feneral Government in fighting illicit manufacture and traffic in intoxicating liquor.

Passage of the O'Grady-McDermott bill, named for its sponsors in the House and the Senate, followed a day of oratory, and was presaged shortly before the final roll call by defeat of a dry measure to attach a referendum clause. The vote on the referendum also was 26 to 24.

The attitude of Senator Adelbert Roberts, Negro, held the Senate in tense expectancy until his vote for the repeal bill was cast. At recess time he had declared he was in doubt whether he would vote "dry," as he always had, or change, as he believed he should, and vote "wet."

"I need time," he said, in demanding the recess, "to think it over."

"Not according to the dictates of my conscience," senator Roberts said in explaining his vote, "but to obey the mandate of voters in my district I vote 'aye.'"

MacDonald's Cabinet Menaced by Liberals

Two Dramatic Moves, Censure Demand and Letter to Voters, Forecast Serious Threat Against Labor Government in Great Britain.

London, March 25 (A.P.).—Political experts professed to see a new and serious threat to the MacDonald government in two dramatic developments which occurred tonight in the ranks of the Liberal party.

The first was a decision by the Liberal members of Parliament to hear the government's case in the debate on a Conservative vote of censure, which is to be moved in the House of Commons early next week, before they decide how they will vote.

The second development was the publication of a letter from Sir John Simon to the president of the Liberal Association in his constituency of Spen Valley, the contents of which were interpreted as an indication that Sir John will vote against the government.

The parliamentary party's decision was regarded as an implication that if the Laborites want the Liberals to save them from defeat they will have to give definite assurance they are prepared to carry out unemployment relief plans on lines acceptable to the bulk of the Liberal party.

Whatever the government promises, it seems certain they will have at least some Liberals against them, and in this connection Sir John Simon's letter is regarded as of the highest significance.

Referring in that letter to the vote at last night's Liberal party meeting, when a secret "declaration of policy" was passed by a vote of 33 to 17, Sir John said today's newspapers interpreted the vote as an assurance of general support to the government.

"I don't see how the Liberals in the House can make such a declaration," he wrote, "when Liberal candidates are fighting Labor candidates in by-elections and receiving abuse from Socialist speakers all over the country."

More than one-third of the party—the seventeen members who voted against the declaration yesterday—are prepared to take up a "bolder line," the letter said.

These and other statements the letter contained were believed to leave no doubt that Sir John will vote against the government in the vital division, and that if he can find enough Liberal supporters the government will be defeated regardless of what decision the Liberals come to officially during the debate.

Meanwhile, there is to be a meeting of the Liberal Candidates Association tomorrow, at which Lloyd George will disclose the terms of the "declaration." His announcement may throw a little more light on the situation.

Itch Powder Used to Rout Nude Women From Fence

Religious Sect's Sun Bath in British Columbia Is Interrupted.

Nelson, B. C., March 25 (A.P.).—Itch powder has come to vex the Doukhobors. Seven Doukhobor women sat sunning themselves on a fence near Thrum. Spring had come and the sunning was thorough, for the Doukhobors, a religious sect, are champions of the nude.

Police, reporting the matter today, said the women were near the highway and railway. Officers told the Doukhobors to seek shelter and put on some clothes.

The law met resistance, whereupon the constables unlimbered a unique contraption and sprayed the women with itch powder. The official report of Staff Sergeant Stephenson said the officers "dusted the Doukhobors with itch powder."

Several male Doukhobors stood by. One of them bethought himself of a

Spanish Student Riot Kills 2 and Hurts 54

Medical School Youths, Denied Parade Favoring Amnesty for Political Prisoners, Clash With Police; 14 Persons Seriously Injured.

Madrid, March 25 (A.P.).—Flying the red flag of rebellion, students clashed with police at the San Carlos Medical School today, resulting in the death of two persons and serious injury to fourteen.

The students barricaded themselves within the school buildings and battled authorities with bullets and stones. Using air pistols at first, police were forced to resort to rifle fire to quell the uprising. About 40 were slightly hurt.

After four hours of intermittent firing the students abandoned their fortress and fled through a rear door into the streets. They were not detained by the civil guards, although later several were arrested. Traffic was suspended during the clash, and a cordon was thrown around the sector when the smoke had cleared.

The disorders had their origin in the refusal of authorities to allow the students to parade in behalf of amnesty for political prisoners. They were accompanied by minor demonstrations at Seville and Salamanca.

The government is studying the possibility of closing the universities if trouble continues.

The student action adds to the government's burden of attempting to solve the troublesome political situation with Socialists, Republicans, and antimonarchist groups renewing their campaign designed to upset the monarchy.

King Alfonso himself is studying the situation carefully; and many observers believe it is one of the most troublesome he has faced during his regime, some predicting that if it does not straighten itself out a military dictatorship may be established.

Kin of Hoover, Jr., Awarded $21,500

Tommy Watson, 16, Who Lost Leg in Accident, to Be Engineer.

San Francisco, March 25 (A.P.).—Sixteen-year-old Tommy Watson, brother-in-law of Herbert Hoover, jr., son of the President of the United States, hobbled out of Superior Court here today with a certified check for $21,500.

He hobbled because he lost a leg—and with it his football hopes—in a street car accident here last November 12. The check was given by the city in settlement for the injury.

It had been Tommy's ambition to play football some day with Stanford University. He thinks now he'll be an engineer.

Calvin Coolidge Says:

Another epic so characteristic of our country has just been published in the will of the late Ella Wendel. She has left a fortune estimated at well over $75,000,000 almost entirely to charity. It took three generations of thrift, industry, and intelligence to accumulate this property. Now it is to be distributed with the sole purpose of attempting to benefit the public. It goes to the people.

Under the laws and customs of the United States there is little cause to fear the power of wealth. Occasionally there are those who abuse it chiefly to their own harm. It is difficult to find a great fortune that has been preserved through three generations. Not having to support a titled class, our wealth becomes distributed by inheritance and bequest.

Accumulated wealth is one of the foundations of our progress. Distributed per capita it would be ineffective; in accumulation it supports our industries, raises the standard of living, and endows education, religious and charitable institutions. Almost all the time we find it genuinely employed in the service of the people. The Wendel will only discloses in an emphatic way what is constantly being done in our country.

Dudley Field Malone today canceled an engagement to speak next Sunday evening at the forum of the Community Church, of which the Rev. John Haynes Holmes, chairman of the city affairs committee, is pastor.

Palm Springs, Calif., March 25 (A. P.).—Mayor James J. Walker of New York is "O. K.," Dr. Silas A. Lewis, of Los Angeles, said tonight after making a thorough physical examination.

"The mayor is organically sound," Dr. Lewis said.

"While he is fit to return to New York now, I advised him to remain away another month in order to make permanent his gain in health."

"I wish I could stay longer," the mayor said, "but will go back, starting probably Sunday."

Pittsburgh, Pa., March 25 (U.P.).—The first open councilmanic hearing in Pittsburgh's purchasing scandal, which already has resulted in the dismissal of the director of supplies, opened today with council listening to charges preferred by Henry Oliver Evans, former city controller.

Evans called three expert witnesses in support of his general statement that $1,100,000 over contract prices had been paid by the city in three years previous to 1929.

Meanwhile the investigation into the city's methods of purchasing for its various departments, including "canned peaches" at Mayview, the City Home, reached the old exposition grounds today, where auditors endeavored to determine amounts of gasoline used in municipal automobiles.

The auditors also interested themselves in the records dealing with cars scrapped by city officials.

DRIVER GETS YEAR IN PRINCE GEORGES

Bill Introduced to Curb Bondsmen Hits Alleged Racket in County.

A sentence of twelve months in the House of Correction, on a charge of driving while drunk, was placed against William T. Wiggins, colored, of Glenarden yesterday in Prince Georges County Police Court. Wiggins was convicted of running off River road into the fence around the house of Robert McCullough.

He was also convicted of reckless driving, which cost him $25; having no permit, $10, and having no registration card, $10. He was unable to pay the fines, and will serve 45 days more in prison in default.

Harry A. Sweeney, of N street northwest, near Thirteenth street, was fined $200 for possession. Ola Riley was fined $50 for possession and $5 for speeding. Horace A. Bray, jr., of Baltimore, will have to pay $100 for possession, $5 for speeding and $1 for having no registration card.

Ferdinand Hughes was fined $100 for driving while drunk and $10 for reckless driving after an accident on the Defense highway, in which two persons were hurt. Edward J. Brooks, of V street northwest, near Seventeenth street, was fined $100 for exceeding 60 miles an hour and $50, the maximum fine, for having a smoke screen. Homer Boileau was fined $10 for being drunk and disorderly.

An echo of the recent grand jury investigation of the alleged bonding "racket" in the county was heard yesterday when a bill to debar indefinitely any bondsman splitting fees with justices of the peace or constables was introduced in the Legislature.

The bill was introduced by Delegates Izant R. Mullikin, J. Guy Bell, William P. Keys and Charles C. Marbury, who also introduced the new police bill. The police bill provides for a force of eleven men under a chief, all of whom are appointed by the county commissioners and are responsible only to the board.

The bonding bill also provides that any magistrate or policeman convicted in circuit court of accepting split fees from a bondsman would be disqualified from holding office. It carries an emergency clause which will make it operative as soon as passed.

The new police bill not only divorces the force from the sheriff's office, but will also give the commissioners power to remove members of the force on charges. Five days' notice must be given before a hearing on charges, after which they may be put off the force. At present the commissioners appoint policemen on the recommendation of the sheriff, but do not have the authority to remove them.

The bill stipulates that a substation shall be established in Hyattsville, and that both the substation and the headquarters in Marlboro shall be open 24 hours a day, with an officer on duty at all times. In the past it sometimes has been difficult to locate a policeman in case of emergency.

Another bill affecting the county provides that a stenographer shall be appointed to serve the judge of the circuit court, the county prosecutor and the grand jury. A salary of $1,200 a year is authorized, which is hoped to be an economy over the present practice of employing a stenographer for special jobs.

A bill to provide a park commission for the colored subdivision known as Eagle Harbor was also introduced. The bill amends the charter of the town in

A bill authorizing the Lincoln Memorial Cemetery, near Suitland, to acquire 65 more acres of land, was also introduced, although some opposition to the extension has already been heard. Henry T. Jenkins, of Suitland, has already written the delegation that the citizens of the community, "in general," are opposed to the bill. The cemetery consists of 100 acres and wishes to buy the rest of the tract of which it is formed.

With the plea that the operation of the Chesapeake Beach Railway is necessary to serve rural parts of the county a bill to exempt the road from taxes for two years was introduced in the Senate. The road is now said to be operating at a loss.

The hearing for the seven students taken in a raid in Cheverly Tuesday morning will be held Monday, having been postponed from yesterday at the request of Alan Bowie, county prosecutor, who is engaged in preparing cases for the grand jury.

Of the seven children taken when county policemen visited the community, the three girls and two of the boys are students in Maryland high schools. One of the boys is said to be enrolled in a junior high school here, and another of the boys was expelled from the Bladensburg Junior High School last fall.

The hearing will probably be held before Judge Retta D. Morris, to whom complaints from neighbors were made. W. H. White, principal of the school which the girls attend, accompanied the policeman to the house of Michael Sullivan, where an alleged party was going on during school hours. Michael Sullivan, sr., was not at home at the time, although his son, Michael, jr., was.

Judge Morris has said that she will call a number of other students to testify at the hearing. No liquor was found in the house, it is said.

Mrs. Frank Small, jr., chairman of club institutes of the Prince Georges County Federation of Women's Clubs, was in charge of an institute held yesterday in Star Hall in Mount Rainier. The purpose of the meeting was to show the right and wrong ways of conducting a club meeting.

Mrs. J. Enos Ray was guest speaker at the meeting yesterday, and the program also included Mrs. A. B. Gahan, Mrs. Charles O. Appleman, Mrs. Rudolph S. Allen, Mrs. O. N. Eaton, Mrs. Joseph H. Blandford, jr., Mrs. Bernard Moffitt, Mrs. Albert Roussel, Mrs. Lottie Boswell, Mrs. Luther S. Munson, James F. Fitzhugh, Mrs. Walter Thorne, Mrs. Sarah J. Weingarten and Mrs. George Castle.

Mark M. Moran, as temporary chairman of the new Democratic Club of the Nineteenth District, will preside over a meeting of the club tonight when permanent organization is expected to be effected. The meeting will be held at 8 o'clock in the community hall of the Stephen Citizens Association.

Funeral services were held yesterday at his home for John M. Watson, of Hyattsville, who died Monday night. He was buried in Rock Creek Cemetery after services conducted by the Rev. C. I. Flory, of the First Methodist Episcopal Church South of Hyattsville and the Rev. Charles H. Cannon, former pastor of that church.

Mr. Watson's death was due to heart disease, although he had been in poor health for several years. He had lived in Hyattsville for more than forty years, although a native of Washington. He had been a hotel clerk here for years, but was engaged in the paperhanging business at the time of his death. He is survived by his widow, the former Miss Laura G. Muddiman, of Washington, whom he married more than 52 years ago.

STORE TO BE CUT AWAY TO WIDEN ROAD

The white line shows where Burgess' store, in Hyattsville, will be cut away to widen the roadway at that point. A condemnation jury yesterday decided that Mr. Gurgess should be paid $33,000 for the land which will be taken for the road, although he had asked for $40,000. Several accidents have occurred at this intersection, where the 34-foot Rhode Island avenue narrows to 18 feet. Mr. Burgess has not decided whether he will try to sell the remainder of the tract or will remain in business on the corner.

BODY OF PICKETT'S WIDOW CREMATED

Five Spots for Final Burial Considered; Decision Within Ten Days.

Cremation of the body of Mrs. La Salle Corbell Pickett occurred yesterday morning at Fort Lincoln Cemetery while relatives considered five possible sites for disposition of the ashes, now lying in Gawler's Funeral Home, with the probability that no decision will be reached for about ten days.

Point-blank refusal of the Ladies' Memorial Association in Richmond Tuesday to allow the remains to be placed in Hollywood Cemetery there beside her husband, the famous Confederate cavalry general whose charge at Gettysburg marked the turning point in the Civil War, led to the prompt cremation and the initiation of efforts to find other interment.

Five spots are under consideration by relatives, according to Lieut. George E. Pickett 3d, grandson of Gen. Pickett, who said that certain circumstances will prevent choice of a site probably for ten days.

He expressed hope that the ashes might be placed in Arlington Cemetery. He said that a talk in the offices of the quartermaster general of the Army yesterday revealed that interment might be there "under certain conditions," but that he learned that it could not be there beside her son, Maj. George E. Pickett, jr., who served in the Pay Corps until his death in April, 1911.

A crypt in Abbey Mausoleum, the marble edifice close by the south gate of Arlington Cemetery, was offered to relatives in a letter sent them by Fred J. Rice, Washington attorney, and a director of the mausoleum corporation. He pointed out that Mrs. Pickett "was so much a part of Washington and belonged so much to the Capital City that she should be laid to rest in some place close to the thousands who loved her —a spot close enough to become a hallowed shrine for her thousands of admirers."

The three other possible sites include Fort Lincoln Cemetery, where a plot has been offered; Hollywood Cemetery in Richmond, exclusive of the plot reserved for Gen. Pickett and his men, and another cemetery.

Junior to Be May Queen At Fredericksburg Fete

Special to The Washington Post.

Fredericksburg, Va., March 26.—Miss Evelyn Cline, junior at State Teachers College here, has been selected by the student body as queen to preside over the May Day festival staged annually at the institution. Miss Cline lives in Stafford County, near here.

Miss Mary Clements, of Newport News, also a member of the junior class, was named maid of honor. Other court attendants have not been selected.

FOUR MONTGOMERY BILLS INTRODUCED

Most Important Measure Regulates Wisconsin Avenue Grading.

Annapolis, Md., March 25.—Four bills proposing local legislation for Montgomery County, were introduced in the Senate today by Senator Robert G. Hilton, and a like number made their way into the House hopper.

Most important of the Montgomery County measures was that delegating power to the county commissioners to regulate grading along street car tracks in Wisconsin avenue. The bill provides that the commissioners may condemn such lands for improvements in any special tax area in incorporated towns along the avenue from the District line to Edgemoor. Special authority is also given to enter into agreements with the Washington-Rockville Railway for the purpose of changing the grade of tracks, and removal of trolley poles.

Sale of subdivided lots for delinquent taxes or other land by the same owner, will be prohibited if another bill by Senator Hilton is enacted. It was explained that under present conditions one lot may be sold for delinquent taxes due on a whole group of lots owned by one person. The other measures are proposed to clear up defects in present law relating to the bond of the county treasurer.

The Prince Georges delegation as a group sponsored a measure defining the boundary lines of Mount Rainier.

The salary of the court stenographer for Prince Georges would be increased from $10 to $15 per day, under provisions of a bill by Delegate Zantzinger.

Zantzinger also presented by request, a bill defining the manner in which real estate subdivisions of plats shall be filed. This provides that plats be made by the county surveyor.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

CONTRACT FOR AN AFRICAN HUNT PICTURE.

IT is hereby covenanted and agreed:

First—That all pictures of the safari (loading of supplies, unloading of supplies, bogged trucks, camp pitching, &c.) shall be eliminated.

Second—That there shall be no pictures taken of Thompson gazelles and no reference made to them directly or indirectly by the talking accompanist. So many African hunt pictures have consisted almost entirely of Thompson gazelles that the public has developed a marked antipathy to the creatures. In the words of a young woman at a recent hunt movie, "If they show me another Thompson gazelle I'll scream."

Third—That there be no shots of elands. The picture house audiences are quite fed up on elands. They have nothing against the beast. Elands are all right as far as elands go. But they have gone far enough.

Fourth—That hartbeests shall be ignored completely both in picture and script. Everything that could be shown or said about this animal has been shown and said.

Fifth—Article four shall also apply to water buffalo, only more so.

Sixth—That there shall be no views of zebras. They don't look any different evidently in Africa than in a circus or the public zoo and are quite a disappointment.

Seventh—Pictures of giraffes are expressly forbidden. They have been overemphasized in African hunt films, and the temptation of the announcer to make wisecracks such as "coming from Great Neck," "being very stubborn customers in cases of sore throat," &c., &c., is apparently irresistible.

* * * *

EIGHTH—That there shall be no pictures of elephants. They all look alike, despite the attempts of the lecturers to make them seem otherwise, and audiences prefer the kind that play bass drums and reach for peanuts.

Ninth—That no pictures shall be taken of rhinos unless some new type turns up. Even the school kiddies are as familiar with rhinos now as they are with toy poodles.

Tenth—That all views of lions, tigers, leopards and hyenas are expressly forbidden. They all do the same things in the same way and have obviously become so accustomed to cameras and visiting explorers by now that they are bored by it all. (We saw a lion in a hunt picture the other day that refused to charge until a third camera had been brought up so as to assure a good profile.)

Eleventh—That no picture cameras be taken to within 20 miles of a water hole. Thanks to the African hunt movies, there are few Americans today who can't describe every water hole in Africa. Water holes in darkest Africa are about as much of a novelty to the average man or woman today as news reel pictures of Mussolini.

Twelfth—That there shall be no pictures taken of the participants in African hunts.

Thirteenth—That there shall be no pictures taken in Africa.

Fourteenth—That the above also goes for India.

2 PAIRS OF TROUSERS SAVE WEARER'S LIFE

One Garment Burned Off as Poolesville Garage Is Destroyed.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post, 9103 Conn. Ave., North Chevy Chase, Md. Telephone Wisconsin 4208.

Because he wore two pairs of trousers, Joseph Butler, colored, was saved from serious injury and possibly death yesterday when the Harry Kohlhoss & Sons Garage at Poolesville was destroyed by fire.

Butler, an employe of the garage, had gone into the building yesterday morning to start a fire in the stove. As he struck a match the head of the match flew off and ignited a tub of gasoline nearby which had been used in cleaning tools and parts. In his effort to extinguish the flames Butler, who is 50 years old, caught fire. A mass of flames, he ran from the building and plunged into a barrel of rain water outside.

The flames had burned off the outer pair of pants and would have caused serious injuries had it not been for the second pair, which were badly scorched. As it was, he was severely burned on the hands and arms.

The building and its contents were destroyed, causing damage of approximately $10,000. Included in the loss were three new automobiles and six used cars, one of which was the car of Lawrence Clagett, former county policeman, who was fatally burned two weeks ago following an explosion of a five-gallon can of gasoline with which he was stirring up a dying fire.

The Gaithersburg - Washington Grove and Rockville Volunteer Fire Departments responded to the alarm, but the building was a seething mass of flame when they arrived a short time later. The firemen managed to save surrounding buildings. The smoke from the fire could be seen more than 6 miles away.

The legislative program of the present county administration was approved at a meeting of the newly formed county congress of the Montgomery Government Club Tuesday night in the Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School. The meeting lasted until midnight.

Nearly 600 representatives of county voters appeared at the meeting to register their approval of the administration. The only item which called for any debate was the increase from $100 to $300 in traveling expenses of members of the board of education. This was finally approved. The objection was that it savored of paying the school board members.

Maj. E. Brooke Lee, county administration leader and president of the Government Club, outlined the aims of the club and said that "no set of office holders can fail to carry out the reasonable recommendations of this organization and survive." He indicated that the club would have much weight in the formation of county policy.

Josiah W. Jones and G. R. Canby, whose terms had expired, were re-elected directors of the Montgomery County Farm Bureau Supply Co. at its annual meeting in Rockville. Three other directors, C. F. Clagett, Calvin Bready and L. A. Darby, were held over.

Mr. Jones, president, and Miss Katherine Benson, secretary-treasurer, read their annual reports.

The fact finding subcommittee of the general citizens committee on a senior high school for the Silver Spring area will meet tonight at 8 o'clock in the County Building at Silver Spring. The members will endeavor to decide upon a location for the proposed high school which they can recommend to the general body. Ralph Lee is chairman.

A decree of absolute divorce from Gilbert M. Oliver, of A street near Seventh street southeast, was awarded to Mrs. Frances E. Oliver, of Takoma Park, Md., yesterday by Judge Robert B. Peter in Circuit Court at Rockville. The wife was given the right to resume her maiden name of Frances E. Belbin.

Through Attorney D. Edward Clarke, of Washington, the wife alleged desertion and nonsupport. The couple was married in Newport News, Va., and has no children.

Suit for absolute divorce from Mrs. Lillian Belle Oden, of Washington, was filed yesterday in Circuit Court at Rockville by William Oden, of Germantown, Md. Through Attorney F. Barnard Welsh, of Rockville, the husband charges desertion and names a corespondent. The couple was married January 1, 1921, at Bethesda, Md., and has one child. Two other children are disclaimed by the plaintiff.

BALTIMORE SUNDAY BILL PASSES HOUSE

Measure Is Sent to Senate After 70-to-39 Vote to Shift Blue Laws.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., March 25.—The fight for modification and possibly repeal of Sunday blue laws moved another step nearer to solution today when the House of Delegates passed the bill by Delegate Thomas Dalesandro, of Baltimore City, to exempt the city from the statutes as far as Sunday moving pictures and other amusements are concerned. The vote was 70 to 39.

The bill was sent to the Senate for consideration along with the bill sponsored by Speaker Francis A. Michel, which passed the House more than two weeks ago. The Michel bill is more extensive in scope in that it carries provisions for home rule in communities outside of Baltimore City, and also would permit Sunday sale of merchandise.

Michel Action Withheld.

Senator S. Scott Beck, Kent County, chairman of the judicial proceedings committee, served notice that action on the Michel bill would be withheld until the House passed upon the Dalesandro proposal which had been introduced in the meantime. Also, the question has been raised as to the constitutionality of the Michel bill on the delegation of power provisions, and it is the desire of the Senate to consider all Sunday law legislation at one time.

There is pending before the House also an outright repealer of all Sunday laws. It was introduced by Delegate McKendrick, Baltimore City.

Goodman Bill Recommitted.

Although the House temperance committee submitted a favorable report on the bill by Delegate Goodman, Baltimore City, designed to put the State in the liquor business, the measure was virtually killed when Floor Leader James J. Lindsay succeeded in having it recommitted. The bill was bitterly attacked by a number of delegates as purposeless, untimely, and contravening Federal statutes. The bill was sponsored by Mr. Goodman on the ground that "The State is a sovereign power and not amenable to the restrictions of the eighteenth amendment."

A joint resolution memorializing President Hoover to take immediate steps to have distributed among the poor, flour from 200,000,000 bushels of wheat now held by the Government, was presented in the Senate.

Red Cross Is Named.

The resolution says there does not appear any definite plan for the disposal of this Government-owned wheat and asserts it could be sent to millers throughout the country and ground into flour and distributed among the needy, thereby relieving some of the existing suffering. The Red Cross is named as the agency to handle distribution.

Another move designed to relieve depression and unemployment was taken by the Washington County delegation in the House in the form of a resolution asking that no convict labor be employed in construction of the new State penitentiary near Hagerstown. The resolution is directed to the State board of welfare, which will supervise construction of the prison.

Floor Leader Lindsay presented in the House a bill to rearrange the system of taxing insurance companies, by providing a 2 per cent tax on domestic fire and marine companies in lieu of the present form of tax on shares and providing a like tax on franchises of stock companies. One-half of the revenue thus derived would go to the State and the balance distributed among the counties and Baltimore City.

NEWS OF SOCIETY IN SUBURBS OF WASHINGTON

FAIRFAX TEACHERS GATHER TOMORROW

Church Auxiliary at Floris Honors Mrs. Hagins at All-Day Parley.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 2324-W2.

The Fairfax County Teachers Association will hold an all-day meeting tomorrow at Madison School, at Falls Church. This is the first year that the teachers have been granted permission to use a weekday for a meeting of this nature. The school board last month voted to allow the teachers to meet on a weekday on the recommendation of Supt. Wilbert T. Woodson, who stated the teachers were displaying the finest cooperation and professional spirit this year.

The program for tomorrow has been arranged by the executive committee of the association, of which Miss Dorothy Otley, principal of Clifton High School, is president. It will include a business session for all. Supt. Woodson will talk on "Standards in Fundamental Subjects for Students Before Entering High School." This talk will be followed by sections and group meetings for high school, grammar, intermediate and primary grade teachers. The high school group will hold an hour's joint session before subdividing by subjects.

On invitation of Supt. Woodson and Mrs. Elsie A. Davis, rural supervisor of the white schools, three speakers from the Fredericksburg State Teachers College will address the various groups. Mrs. M. L. Altstetter will discuss methods in reading for the primary teachers and social studies as related to reading in the upper grades. Dr. Eileen Kramer Dodd will speak to the teachers of both the upper and lower grades on the methods of teaching arithmetic. Miss Lucy Pierce will discuss languages and grammar to both the upper grades and high school teachers.

Following a luncheon period a short business session will be held and the teachers of the upper grades and high schools will listen to an address by Dr. W. C. French, of George Washington University. High school English teachers will be presided over by Miss Nancy Gregory Edwards, of Falls Church; the history teachers by Miss Eolene Follin, of McLean; the mathematics teachers by Miss Elizabeth Shank, of Falls Church; high school sciences, by Miss Mary Jane Clyne, of Herndon, and the Latin and French teachers by Miss Mary M. Snead, of Oakton. Miss Lucy Pierce, of State Teachers College, will address the high school teachers on "Presentation of Formal Grammar and English Composition."

The Falls Church High School Athletic Association plans to serve a 25-cent luncheon to the teachers during the noon intermission.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Church of the Brethren, at Oakton, will hold its meeting this afternoon in the church house.

The Falls Church Chapter, Daughters of America, will meet this afternoon with Mrs. George B. Fadeley, on the Lee highway, at East Falls Church.

Miss Sarah E. Thomas, Fairfax County home demonstration agent, will attend a meeting of the 4-H Club at the Fairview School at Fairfax Station this morning, where she will give a demonstration on the preparation of the economical cuts of meats.

At a recent all-day meeting of the Women's Auxiliary and Circle of the Floris Presbyterian Church at the home of Mrs. R. B. Nickell, at Floris, Mrs. Joseph Hagins was elected president.

Other officers elected included Mrs. Wilson McNair, vice president; Mrs. Sarah Middleton, secretary, and Mrs. Edgar E. Beard, treasurer. Mrs. Hagins appointed the ffollowing secretaries of causes: Mrs. Howard Pack, home mission; Mrs. C. T. Patton, foreign mission; Mrs. Gilbert McLearen, synodical and presbyterial mission; Mrs. R. B. Nickell, Christian education and ministerial relief; Mrs. W. D. Middleton, religious education; Mrs. R. B. Nickell, secretary of literature; Mrs. E. E. Beard, social activities, pastor's aid and Christian social service, and Mrs. Blakemore Fleming, chairman of the home circle.

The Epworth League of the Crossman Methodist Church at Falls Church, will hold a business meeting this evening in the church.

The Women's Auxiliary of the Episcopal Church at Falls Church will meet with Mrs. Howard Steadman at West Falls Church this afternoon.

An all-day meeting of the women's missionary societies of the Baptist churches of McLean, Falls Church, Fairfax, Clarendon, Cherrydale, Clifton Station, Herndon, Ballston and Fort Myer Heights will be held in Herndon today.

Caribbean Air Maneuvers Near.

Colon, Republic of Panama, March 25 (A.P.).—Air and sea craft left Panama today to concentrate in the Caribbean, preparatory to execution of aerial maneuver problems in which 250 airplanes will participate. Other ships will follow within the next 24 hours.

STUDENTS IN LINE FOR FLAG CONTEST BLANKS

Louis Johnden, Post Staff Photographer.

Eastern High School students form line to receive application blanks for The Post's essay contest which carries to the winners a trip to London and Paris and which is sponsored by the United States Flag Association. Charles Hart, principal of the school, at the left, is issuing a blank to P. Barney Kane, captain of the school basketball team, while other students await their turn in line.

FLAG PROJECT IS INDORSED BY BRITISH AMBASSADOR

most practical way to the one patriotism worthy of the name, which is that those who combine a love of their own country with a respect for that of others. I hope that their visit to England will be in every way a pleasant one and I feel sure that their friendly greetings will be most warmly reciprocated."

That this trip is not to be taken as any trend toward so-called "internationalism" was pointed out yesterday by officials of the United States Flag Association, who called attention to the start of the trip, which is to be to Fort McHenry, Md., where Francis Scott Key was inspired to write "The Star-Spangled Banner;" Philadelphia, Pa., where the famed Liberty Bell tolled out the first announcement of American liberty, and Valley Forge, where Washington's soldiers, their feet clad in bloodstained rags in lieu of shoes, stuck it out to finally win independence for this great country.

Teaches Love of Flag.

"Rational Patriotism," on which the good-will trip is founded, does not mean any diminution in the love of country which is the inheritance of every American child, it is declared. It merely teaches them that children of other countries have the same love for their flags, and that one can stand by his country to the last issue and still recognize the rights of others, settling differences around the council table rather than upon the battlefield.

Renewed calls for application blanks for entry in the essay contest leading to this good-will trip to Europe found the supply exhausted yesterday, and the Flag Association was compelled to order an additional supply. Telephones at Flag Association headquarters continued to ring yesterday, the majority of calls being from parents who sought to learn how to best promote the interests of their children in the contest.

Again one and all were given the same answer.

The United States Flag Association is not equipped to act as an information bureau.

Printed in The Post.

Every new development in the contest is promptly printed in The Washington Post, and only by reading that publication every day can any interested party keep in close touch with the situation.

New conditions are constantly arising and the flag association can make them known only through The Post.

Conditions of the contest are plainly printed on the application blanks. They are concise and understandable and students who can qualify for the contest should have no difficulty in mastering them.

Following the publication of tentative questions which are samples of those that may be asked in the oral quiz on April 11, students in all parts of the city began to look up reference books, and the libraries experienced an unusual run on books dealing with historical or flag topics.

Best Book to Read.

For the benefit of those unacquainted with the proper books to obtain, it is pointed out that the book, "The American Flag, Its Glory and Grandeur," covers a large number of the questions and can be obtained from any library in the city.

Plans for the trip to Europe are steadily going ahead, and any student of any high school, public or private, senior or junior, who is past 14 years of age and will not have passed the age of 18 on Flag Day, which is June 14, is eligible to compete.

Preliminary selections, which include one boy and one girl from each school, will be made on the basis of an essay, "The Typical American Boy" by the boys, and "The Typical American Girl" by the girls. The contestants will also be judged on a basis of reasonable intelligence, high moral character, personality and scholastic standing. From this group will be selected the ultimate winners, these two being the survivors of the final test.

Warrenton Grand Jury Returns 5 Indictments

Special to The Washington Post.

Warrenton, Va., March 25.—A regular grand jury, with G. Richard Thompson as foreman, returned five true bills at the opening day of the March term of Fauquier County Circuit Court, Judge J. R. H. Alexander presiding.

Charles Washington, jr., and William Wheler, colored, were indicted for highway robbery and on pleas of guilty were sentenced to ten years each in the State Penitentiary at Richmond.

What Winners Receive In Flag Essay Contest

Because of some apparent lack of understanding as to the awards awaiting the winners in the essay contest being conducted by the United States Flag Association, with the cooperation of The Washington Post, the list of awards is again printed.

AWARDS.

Each contestant selected for the preliminary test will be awarded the Old Glory Medal of the United States Flag Association. This decoration carries life membership in the Order of the Flag, which is headed by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, as the first man to become a member of the order, and invests the recipient with title of Son of the Flag, if a boy, and Daughter of the Flag, if a girl.

The two Envoys of Friendship selected will be given:

Patriotic Pilgrimage—A free trip to Fort McHenry, Md. (where Francis Scott Key was inspired to write "The Star-Spangled Banner"), Philadelphia and Valley Forge.

Goodwill Trip to Europe—A free trip to London and Paris, with side trips to Oxford, the Shakespeare country and Sulgrave Manor (Washington's ancestral home) in England, and visits to Versailles, Fontainebleau and the American battle fields in France.

Traveling Wardrobe—A traveling wardrobe consisting of one uniform, including hat, for day wear; one uniform, for evening wear; one pair shoes, 3 pairs sox or stockings, four shirts for boys (shirtwaists for girls), two ties, one hand trunk.

Cross of Honor—The Cross of Honor of the United States Flag Association, which is the association's highest award. Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was the first man to receive this decoration, which has also been awarded former President Coolidge. It carries life membership in the Order of the Flag, and invests the recipient with the title Knight of the Flag, in case of a boy, and Lady of the Flag, in case of a girl.

Each alternate Envoy of Friendship will receive the Patriotic Service Medal, the second highest decoration of the United States Flag Association.

ARLINGTON VOTERS HEAR BUREAU HEAD

Miss Mary Anderson Pleads for Fewer Hours of Labor in Virginia.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Reduction of hours of labor and continuance of high wages will do more to aid the unemployment situation than any other one thing, declared Miss Mary Anderson, head of the Woman's Bureau of the Department of Labor, before the Organized Women Voters of Arlington County yesterday in the Calvary Methodist Protestant Church at Aurora Hills.

"The Woman's Bureau advocates the same wages for women that men receive," she said. "It has been found in many cases that women are receiving smaller wages than are men and that is one thing that we protest."

The standard for women in the business world can be raised by the employer, by trade unions, and by legislation, Miss Anderson stated.

"Most of the Western States have an eight-hour law that applies to all women in business. In Virginia the law is ten hours," she declared. "Proper legislation in Virginia can do much to improve conditions for the women who are in business. Good wages mean the road to prosperity."

Miss Hazel Neilson, associated with the Bicentennial Commission, spoke at length on plans for the celebration next year. The commission has prepared many papers on the life of Washington including programs to be carried out during the celebration.

This organization is to be congratulated in what it has already done. The suggestion that a housing commission be created is one of the most valuable suggestions that has been made, she stated.

The organization went on record indorsing the movement which has been started by the Arlington County Civic Federation that will permit all Federal employes to take an active part in local politics.

Organization of the executive committee of the Arlington County Bicentennial Council will be effected at a luncheon meeting today at the offices of the Bicentennial Council in the Washington Building, according to Arthur Orr.

At the conclusion of the meeting the council will visit the offices of the national commission.

The Arlington County W. C. T. U. will hold an institute at the Clarendon Methodist Church tomorrow morning beginning at 10 o'clock. Sessions will be held all day. Among those listed on the program is Mrs. Howard Hoge, State president of the organization.

The afternoon session will open at 1:30 o'clock, when a constitution for city and county will be adopted, which will be followed with the election of officers.

The evening session at 7:30 o'clock will be devoted to the young people, featuring a gold medal contest. The program will include the presenting of a play, "The Crusade."

Prof. David Lunsden, of the Department of Agriculture, formerly of Kew Gardens, England, and Cornell University, will give an illustrated lecture on "Community Improvement and Landscaping" in the parish hall of Grace Episcopal Church Monday evening at 8 o'clock. The meeting is being held under auspices of the Thrifton Village Improvement League.

The Parent-Teacher Association of the Cherrydale School will sponsor a tree planting with Arbor Day exercises in the school yard tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

The annual congregational meeting of the Clarendon Presbyterian Church last night resulted in the election of the following officers: Charles L. Mann, clerk of the session; Oscar T. Atwood, Isaac Bowbeer, Charles W. Harris, Emil Rauchenstein and Charles W. Strahorn, elders; Howard J. Smith, Walter F. Sunderman, John O. Hardesty, James W. Engel, Adolph I. Richmond and Emmanuel D. Jones, trustees; Albert Hillery, Perry Gowan and Adolph I. Richmond, deacons.

Mrs. Howard I. Smith was elected president of the Woman's Society. Other officers are Mrs. Nat Hynes, vice president; Mrs. Walter F. Sunderman, secretary, and Mrs. Mary Perkins Snyder, treasurer.

Bible class officers are Adolph I. Richmond, president; Mrs. John Eyre, vice president; Mrs. Emil Rauchenstein, treasurer, and Miss Gibson, secretary.

Speaking at a dinner of the Arlington-Fairfax Board of Religious Education last night in the Arlington Methodist Church, the Rev. Minor C. Miller, general secretary of the Virginia Council of Religious Education, stressed the need of an increased contribution from the church to the whole educational field. He pointed out the imperative need for renewed service in the fields of church school, church vacation school, week-day schools of education and leadership training.

Reports showing the progress being made in the two counties in the week-day religious training which has been conducted for the past two years were made by Miss Ethel Morrison, director; Walter K. Handy, president of the board, and Monroe H. Stockett, treasurer.

The Arlington Rotary Club will hold its weekly luncheon meeting today at the Washington Golf and Country Club at 12:30 o'clock.

B. J. Hyslup, vocational guidance director, of the Virginia Board of Education, is announced as the principal speaker at the monthly meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association of the Washington-Lee High School, to be held in the school auditorium tonight.

Adopting a policy that there is more to a political campaign than speeches, the Arlington County Republican Club held the second of a series of social meetings last night in the Odd Fellows Hall at Clarendon. It was attended by more than 200.

President J. Foster Hagan stated the Republicans of Arlington County are today united as never before and will give a good account of themselves at the polls in November.

Entertainment included recitation by Mrs. Elsie Gordon, banjo solo by Benjamin Clarkson, recitation by Mrs. Louis A. MacMahan and songs by Marion Moreland and Anna Mendal and Dorothy Moreland, radio artists. Music during the evening was furnished by Cleve Topley and his Revelers.

Dinwiddie to Fight Annexation Steps

Counsel Named to Check Taking of Territory by Petersburg.

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., March 25.—Former State Senator Morton G. Goode and W. Potter Stern, Commonwealth's attorney of Dinwiddie County, were appointed by the county board of supervisors yesterday to represent the county in its legal fight against the City of Petersburg taking any part of its territory in its annexation proceedings in order to enlarge the city.

The County of Prince George, which also protested against Petersburg taking any of its territory, has secured the legal services of Richard H. Mann, of Petersburg, and Jordan J. Temple, of Prince George. Petersburg's interest will be looked after by R. Bolling Willcox, city attorney, and Samuel W. Zimmer, a prominent lawyer here and former Mayor of Petersburg.

An organization of taxpayers is being formed in Dinwiddie to aid the county in keeping Dinwiddie boundary lines intact. At the supervisors meeting it was moved that since Petersburg has refused to supply water to the county, Dinwiddie proceed to obtain water from some other source.

HOOVER FACES NORTH AFTER ISLAND VISIT

St. Thomas Gives President Colorful and Heatry Welcome to City.

Aboard U. S. S. Arizona, at Sea, March 25 (U.P.).—President Hoover was homeward bound tonight on the battleship Arizona after a briew visit during the day at St. Thomas, in the Virgin Islands, his second port of call on a cruise of United States possessions in the West Indies.

The Arizona turned its nose northward at 2:25 p. m., after a stay of about seven hours. The warship with the presidential party on board is due Sunday evening at Hampton Roads, Va., the end of its ten-day "shake down" cruise.

Mr. Hoover received a warm welcome from the inhabitants of the capital. The presidential party aboard a barge went ashore through a lane of native boats decorated with palms. Greetings were shouted by the thousands of grinning natives as the President passed along the water highway.

Native Instruments Played.

The islanders chanted and played on native instruments. Mr. Hoover was delighted with the reception, and smiled as he acknowledged the picturesque salutes he received on every hand.

Governor General Paul M. Pearson, who took office last week as the first civil governor of the islands since they became American possessions in 1917, boarded the Arizona to welcome the President. They discussed petitions and memorials presented by the islanders, and after a brief parley went ashore.

An unusual and interesting native parade was held in the President's honor. Elaborate floats represented Uncle Sam, and various industries of the islands, including bay rum, sugar and coaling.

Hoover Addresses Council.

After hearing resolutions of welcome, Mr. Hoover addressed the colonial council of St. Thomas. He said he appreciated the courtesies extended to him. He came in the hope he could learn more of the islanders' problems, and visualize conditions so that the United States could cooperate with them to the fullest advantage, the President asserted.

He said that he was sorry he was not able to visit St. Croix, another of the major cities on the islands, but hoped to learn something of the problems there. The following was written by the President in the council's journal:

"I have received these resolutions in deep appreciation, with a vivid hope of the welfare of the islands in cooperation with the United States."

There was no note of criticism in any of the demonstrations. On the contrary, the people appeared to appreciate the new civil administration. The administration of the islands was changed over from the Navy Department to the Department of the Interior recently.

Received by Tennis Club.

Mr. Hoover was guest at a reception at the West Side Tennis Club. A message of welcome was delivered by the club president, Rudolph Lanclos, a young Negro dentist, who spoke in eloquent English.

"We thank you for this magnanimous gesture of democracy," Lanclos said. "The noble, generous spirit which actuated your visit will impel us to greater activities and to a deeper civic pride."

The city was spotless. It recently had a "crimeless week."

The President and members of his party had luncheon with Governor General Pearson. They went sightseeing about St. Thomas immediately after luncheon, and then returned to the Arizona, sailing at 2:25 p. m. for the United States.

The welcome both in the Virgin Islands and on the two-day visit in Porto Rico gave Mr. Hoover intense satisfaction, and he appears to have enjoyed the excursion thoroughly.

150-Mile Trip by Auto Made by Mrs. Hoover

Asheville, N. C., March 25 (A.P.).—Completing her trip from Washington by a 150-mile motor trip through a varied panorama of North Carolina landscape, Mrs. Herbert Hoover arrived here on one of her visits to her convalescing son, Herbert Hoover, jr.

Mrs. Hoover left the train, on which she departed from the National Capital last night, at Salisbury this morning. She was met by two automobiles from Asheville.

The first lady had almost an ideal day of Carolina sunshine for the long drive which carried her through the Pisgah National Forest and other scenic areas of the western North Carolina mountain country. A stiff breeze was the only aspect of the weather that was not entirely agreeable. Arriving here Mrs. Hoover went immediately to Blue Briar Cottage on Sunset Mountain, where he son has been recuperating for six months from a lung affection. There she joined her son, his wife, and her two grandchildren, Peggy Ann and Herbert. Young Hoover's youngest child remained in Washington.

This was Mrs. Hoover's second visit to her son within the month. She accompanied the President here a little more than two weeks ago, when he spent a day with Herbert, jr.

Bill Would Preserve Maryland Indian Fort

Special to The Washington Post.

Hagerstown, Md., March 25.—A bill sponsored by local civic organizations will be introduced as a rider to the tricentennial bill now in the General Assembly. It will provide for sufficient money to restore Fort Frederick, best preserved of the Indian fortresses now in existence. The fort, 175 years old, is located in the western section of Washington County.

It is the plan to restore the walls and officer's barracks, the latter to be used as a museum.

GIRL, 17, SUCCUMBS TO CRASH INJURIES

Victim's Mother Expected to Recover; Hurt in Same Collision With Wagon.

Miss Flora Dyer, 17, of Franconia, who was injured Saturday night when the car in which she was riding collided with a wagon on the Franconia-Alexandria road, died yesterday afternoon in the Alexandria Hospital.

The wagon was driven by Ephraim Brown, colored, of Springfield, Va., who was arrested on a charge of driving while under the influence of liquor. Both horses hitched to the wagon were killed. Brown is now at liberty under a $500 bond on the driving while drunk charge.

The car was driven by Frank Tolbert, of Franconia, and besides Miss Dyer, her mother, Mrs. Thomas Dyer, and Miss Mary Ballinger were injured. Mrs. Dyer, also injured seriously, is expected to recover.

A hearing on the accident will be held Saturday morning at Fairfax before Justice of the Peace Harry Shepherd. Residents living near the scene of the accident have stated that the car, traveling at a rapid rate of speed, plowed into the front of the wagon, the wagon tongue piercing the radiator of the car and throwing one of the horses into the car.

ILLINOIS ASSEMBLY PASSES REPEAL BILL

and as such a curb on a "wet" house, the Senate in passing the repeal bill, recorded the first vote it has ever given against prohibition.

Sponsors of the bill both are Democrats, but both House and Senate are Republican by substantial majorities.

Prior to the vote on the measure, Republican leaders of the "wet" faction had called on their colleagues to support the bill to fulfill a plank in the party platform last fall pledging Republican representatives in Congress to adhere to the will of the people as expressed in the referendum last November on the prohibition question.

The leaders cited statistics, as compiled by the Association Opposed to Prohibition, showing that the vote in the referendum for repeal of the State's prohibition act was 1,050,004, against 523,130.

Gov. Louis Emmerson will receive the bill some time this week. He has not indicated what action he will take. He has ten days in which to act after it reaches his hands.

If the measure, only four lines in length, is approved, the search and seizure and prohibition laws will be erased from the statute books July 1 next. Enforcement of the prohibition laws, opponents of the bill contended, would thus be left wholly in the hands of Federal authorities.

Woman Shot Down In Virginia Home

Alleged Bootlegger Invades Charlottesville Residence and Fires Twice.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., March 25.—An all-day search by Sheriff J. Mason Smith and his deputies failed to locate Herbert Davis, alleged bootlegger, who last night was reported to have walked into the home of Edward Morris, on the old Lynchburg road, and shot Mrs. Myrtle Johnson twice with a revolver.

No motive has been established for the shooting. Morris and his wife said that Davis suddenly burst into their home and demanded of Mrs. Johnson, "Are you going to stay here all night?" Then, they declared, he fired point blank at the woman and fled.

One bullet entered the chest, penetrating a lung, and another lodged in an arm. No statement could be obtained from Mrs. Johnson.

ALEXANDRIA LEGION ARRANGES BANQUET

Post No. 24 Will Celebrate Entry of America Into World War.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Arrangements have practically been completed by Alexandria Post No. 24, American Legion, for its banquet the evening of April 6, in the auditorium of the Virginia Public Service Building, in celebration of the entry of the United States into the World War.

The principal speaker of the evening will be National Commander Ralph T. O'Neil, of Indianapolis, who has canceled another engagement in order to be with the Alexandria post on this occasion. It is the purpose of the post to make this an annual affair, and it is expected a majority of the 400 members of the post and the 175 members of the American Legion Auxiliary will attend.

Others prominently identified with the legion in Virginia who have accepted invitations to attend are Robey Thompson, departmental commander; Glenn Elliott, departmental adjutant; Sam Heller, grande chef de gare of the 40 and 8, and the grande chef de gare of West Virginia, who resides in Fairmont. Maj. Gen. Amos A. Fries, former chief of the Chemical Warfare Service of the Army; Col. Edward H. Schultz, commanding officer at Fort Humphreys, and Col. Ambrose R. Emery, commanding Fort Hunt, who is an active member of the Alexandria post and a member of the committee on arrangements, are also expected to be among the speakers. Clyde B. Lanham will be master of ceremonies and Dan S. Hollenga toastmaster.

The special guests will assemble in the George Mason Hotel and will be escorted from there to the banquet hall, which is directly across the street. The members of the post drum and bugle corps will attend in full uniform. Music will be furnished by a seven-piece orchestra from Fort Humphreys and the program will be broadcast by Station WJSV.

Miss Bessie Parker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Parker and a pupil at Jefferson Graded School, was the winner in the silver medal contest held under the auspices of the Allison Women's Christian Temperance Union in the lecture room of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, Tuesday night. The topic of the oration was "Two Boys and a Cigarette."

Tomorrow evening Miss Parker will enter the district meeting at Clarendon, to compete for a gold medal, and the winner of that contest will be eligible to contest for a diamond to be awarded for the State winner.

Others taking part in the contest were Frances Rosenberg, whose subject was "Your Flag and My Flag;" Virginia Greenwood, who recited "Bob White;" Walter Cornell, with "Cigarettes Are Not For Me;" Annette Irby, with "Fight to the Finish;" Annie Simpson, with "My Story." Janet McLean, who was also scheduled to take part, was unable to do so on account of illness. Each of the contestants was presented with a box of candy, as was also Mrs. Charles Strauss, program chairman, the presentations being made by Mrs. Percy E. Clift. The silver medal was awarded to Miss Parker by the Rev. Emmette R. Spencer, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church and chairman of the judges. Other judges were Mrs. W. D. Mabry, secretary of the Clarendon Women's Christian Temperance Union, and Miss Florence A. Long.

W. L. Johnson, of Summit, Va., yesterday came to this city and identified merchandise valued at a sum in excess of $100 recovered by the Alexandria police from a Negro man giving the name of Buck Harvey, 26 years old, of Calverton, Va., that had been stolen from his store on Monday night.

Johnson came here accompanied by Sheriff Shelby, of Orange County, Va., and after he identified the goods, Harvey was turned over to the sheriff and taken to Orange, Va.

Policemen Hicks and Welker arrested Harvey Tuesday when they saw him on Russell road carrying a heavy suit case, and when questioned by Capt. Campbell the man stated his sister was closing out her store at Calverton, Va., and had given him the stuff to take to a grandmother in Washington. The man had a number of pawn tickets from a Baltimore shop, for men's clothing.

A representative from the Montgomery Ward Store in Lynchburg, Va., came to this city yesterday and identified the merchandise valued at approximately $300 recovered here when three Negro men who were arrested last Saturday. The men gave the names of Archie Tollbert, 34 years old; James Clark, 22, and Otis Coney, 24. All claim to be from Georgia, but gave several different addresses. The stuff was identified as having been stolen from the Lunch... store, and the men will be held for the authorities of that place.

Earl Dodd and his wife, Mrs. Daisy Dodd, yesterday filed suit in the corporation court against Police Sergt. Edgar Sims, Sergt. Lawrence Padgett and Policemen C. D. Curtis and Allie Jones to recover damages in the sum of $5,000 for the alleged searching of their home on Sunday, March 5 last.

Attorneys Frederick L. Flynn and William Lindsay Carne, for the plaintiffs, claim that the police had a warrant for another house to search and not for the Dodd's home. It is stated that Mr. Dodd was at church at the time of the alleged search.

A verdict of $1,300 was given Mrs. Ido Ezrine, wife of B. B. Ezrine, in corporation court, in her suit to recover damages in the sum of $2,000 for the loss of a diamond ring, which she had insured with the Fidelity & Casualty Co. Inc., of New York. J. Randall Caton, attorney for the defendant company, made a motion that the verdict be set aside as contrary to the law and evidence. It was overruled by Judge W. P. Wools. It is understood the case will be taken to the court of appeals. The ring was lost or stolen in April, 1930.

The Alexandria United Charities is still appealing for funds to continue its work the remainder of the season, and the needs are still great. Thomas Chauncey, treasurer, showed that since his last report on March 10, $134 has been collected, and the balance on hand is $151.38.

The luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis Club at 12:30 today at the George Mason Hotel will be devoted to a business session, with no program of entertainment. The meeting will be attended by a new member, Robert Pritchard, of Radio Station WJSV.

Cyrus E. Ridenour Dies in Petersburg

Native of Virginia City Was Active Mason; in World War.

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., March 25.—Cyrus Edward Ridenour, jr., 38, died this morning in Petersburg Hospital. Mr. Ridenour was a lifelong resident of Petersburg and the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Ridenour.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Pauline Bowman Ridenour; one 4-year-old son, C. E. Ridenour 3d; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Rideour; two brothers, Charles and Louis Ridenour, and two sisters, Mrs. R. P. Winfield and Miss Blanche Ridenour, all of this city.

Mr. Ridenour had been active in Masonic work. He was past master of Powhatan Starke Lodge, No. 124, and member of Petersburg Union Royal Arch Chapter, No. 7; Appomattox Commandery, Knights Templar, No. 6, and Acca Shrine Temple. He served in the World War, and at the time of his death was a member of Petersburg Post, American Legion.

Church Trustees Freed of Liability

Virginia Court Fails to Hold Individuals for Debt of Institution.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., March 25.—A jury in the corporation court returned a verdict for the defendants in a civil suit brought by W. B. Catlett, trading as the Catlett Electric Co., of Richmond, against H. K. Hawthorne, R. Merritt Robinson and Dr. M. L. Rea, as trustees for the High Street Baptist Church, for $2,300, representing an alleged debt assumed by the trustees for electrical fixtures installed in the University Baptist Church, when it was constructed in 1929, at a cost of more than $225,000.

The verdict, which was returned after twenty minutes of deliberation, held that the individual trustees were not responsible for the debt assumed by the church itself. The case was heard before Judge A. D. Dabney. The plaintiff was represented by L. W. Graves, jr., and R. G. Deane, and the defendants by E. V. Walker and W. C. Fife, of the firm of Walker & Fife.

Mr. Graves immediately requested that Judge Dabney set the verdict aside as contrary to the law and evidence, and when this motion was denied he informed the court that an appeal would be taken.

SESSION ON REMOVAL OF TRACKS IS HEATED

New York avenue so that residents of the area now served by the F and G street line might be able to ride across the city to the northeast markets. Mr. Ham opposed the proposal as unfair to his line.

Richmond B. Keech, the people's counsel, in his argument also favored this transfer arrangement if the long bus route should not be approved.

Much of the argument and testimony revolved around transportation service for the new Center Market and the Union Terminal Market. The Washington Railway & Electric Co. contended that they are now amply served, while the commission in its cross-questioning indicated its doubt.

Bus Service Costs Less.

During the morning session Mr. Hanna and other representatives of the Capital Traction Co. submitted data to show that their company would save money by the substitution of bus service for the street cars. Rehabilitation of the tracks on the F and G street loop, he said, would cost $200,000. Moreover, the operation of the bus service would be more economical, he said.

Near the end of the hearing, after Mr. Clayton had spoken against the move, Mr. Hanna spoke in a somewhat indignant fashion at what he termed the efforts of the public to block every move of the Capital Traction Co. to save money even when the service was to be improved.

"If we continue to be opposed in our efforts to save money and transportation conditions continue to get worse as they have within the past year," he said, "we will be unable to maintain the same standard of service that we now have."

Authority Is Challenged.

After hearing Mr. Clayton's challenge as to the authority of the commission and his charges that property values on the F and G street loop would suffer from the removal of the tracks, Thomas G. Dunlap, attorney for the Capital Traction Co., asked permission to file a brief in support of the power of the commission. This request was granted by Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman.

Should the commission find it can authorize the removal of these tracks, Mr. Clayton said, it has the power to scrap the tracks on Pennsylvania avenue or any other street in the city.

Edward D. Merrill, president of the Washington Rapid Transit Co., offered some testimony in opposition to the proposed bus service, but his application for permission to change his Potomac Park line was deferred until this morning because of lack of time.

West End Citizens Protest.

Representatives of the West End Citizens Association appeared during the morning in opposition to the removal of the F and G street tracks. Objection was also voiced because the proposed bus route did not cover Twenty-fifth and Twenty-sixth streets, between F and G streets and Pennsylvania avenue, as do the street car tracks.

At one stage of the hearing Mr. Ham stated that the Hyattsville bus line of his company could alter its route so as to better serve Center Market.

$78,000 to Baltimore Woman.

New York, March 25 (A.P.).—Mary V. Wells, of Baltimore, a daughter, was bequeathed $78,268 in the will of Frederic DeWitt Wells, prominent New York lawyer, killed in an automobile accident. He left $340,000.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years, and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, just a healing, soothing vegetable laxative safe and pleasant.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-covered tablets. They help cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth" — bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver — constipation, you should find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets.

Thousands take them every night to keep right. Try them. 15c, 30c, 60c.

THE VIRGIN ISLAND EXPERIMENT.

President Hoover's glimpse of the Virgin Islands was very brief. His visit was evidently made for the purpose of reassuring the people that the Government at Washington is not indifferent to their welfare.

The new regime set up at St. Thomas has not yet been fully developed, but in many respects it promises to be a novel departure. Naval authority has been superseded by a civilian government under the Department of the Interior. A similar arrangement has worked well with respect to Hawaii, but Hawaii is a rich Territory containing a sufficient number of American citizens to insure good local government. The Virgin Islands are poor, the people are backward in the art of government, and American institutions are unfamiliar to them. Dr. Pearson, the new governor, proposes to establish American institutions, first under the direction of Americans, with a gradual increase of native participation.

The economic problem, rather than the political set-up, will engage most attention. How to provide employment for the people is an immediate and pressing question. Various ingenious suggestions have been made, and the personnel taken to the islands by Gov. Pearson is imbued with enthusiasm enough to invigorate a dozen colonial dependencies. Whether these schemes will work in practice is another question. Round-table conferences at Swarthmore, based upon sociological theories and statistics, are quite different from labor in the broiling sun of the Virgin Islands. Plans that might prove successful in an American colony may be utterly unfit for an alien population.

An opportunity for the exercise of statesmanship is offered to Gov. Pearson. The experiment of applying university-inspired modernistic government to a backward colony will be very interesting as it unfolds. Perhaps the Swarthmore system in the Virgin Islands will produce practical short cuts to prosperity which can be applied elsewhere.

MacDONALD WEAKENED.

Premier MacDonald remains at the head of the British government at the discretion of a divided Liberal party. His position has become extremely precarious as a result of the Liberal meeting in which Mr. Lloyd George attempted to commit the party to continued support of the Labor program. Seventeen Liberals rebelled, voting to turn Premier MacDonald out at the first opportunity.

Talk of a Liberal-Labor alliance has been floating out from London. Mr. MacDonald is ambitious to stay in office for at least two more years. To do so he must have the united support of the Liberals, which means that he would be compelled to accept much of the Liberal program. Mr. Lloyd George is disposed to march arm in arm with the Laborites, but in doing so he has caused a rift in his own party. A determined minority under the leadership of Sir John Simon has taken a definite stand in opposition to the Labor administration. If Premier MacDonald wishes to remain in office he must placate this group as well as the majority faction of Liberals.

Only 33 Liberal members of Parliament voted at the party conference to support the existing administration. At least 40 Liberal votes are needed to keep the Labor government in office, in view of Sir Oswald Mosley's desertion of Labor to form a party of his own. It appears that Lloyd George and his following will not be strong enough to save Mr. MacDonald from defeat for any length of time.

This confusing political situation makes it certain that nothing of importance can be accomplished by the Labor government. The first attempt to put through Parliament an important piece of legislation may result in MacDonald's defeat. To maintain his position it will be necessary for him to let the country drift in spite of the economic crisis by which it is faced. In the meantime the Conservatives will be encouraged to press their motion of censure based on the failure of Mr. MacDonald to relieve the unemployed.

REGULATE THE BUSES.

The bus business has grown up. It needs adult regulation. There are nearly 6,000 different bus lines operating in the United States. They carried nearly 2,000,000,000 passengers last year and did a gross business of about $326,000,000. They have emerged from the initial business of connecting the country club with the railroad, taking the children to school and helping suburbanites home.

A list of the destinations to which you can travel on the buses of a modern company looks like an unholy railroad merger that would shock the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Sherman law into immediate action. The railroads complain, with undoubted justice, that since at great expense they have purchased rights of way and laid expensive tracks for a public service that is both useful and absolutely necessary, and since they are regulated to the hundredth of 1 per cent on earnings and dividends, this new and dangerous competitor should in some equitable manner also be regulated.

Buses and trucks run on highways built and maintained by the public. These vehicles no longer confine their activities to local hauls, but go from coast to coast, and are interstate carriers as much as the railroads themselves. The bus managers are themselves divided on the question of more general regulation. Some of them maintain that State control is sufficient, but since many lines traverse several State lines in a single trip it is time to apply Federal control.

Various regulations proposed would limit the length of buses to 30 feet, their speed to 30 miles and their weight to 12 tons. Local regulations are being put in force as traffic grows and accidents increase. The obvious inconvenience for both operators and passengers resulting from variance of State requirements is an argument in favor of Federal regulation.

PROBE OF NEW YORK CITY.

New York's municipal government is to undergo a sweeping investigation directed by the State Legislature. An inquiry of this kind had been threatened for years, but not until corruption had been revealed in numerous departments and public sentiment was thoroughly aroused was the Legislature willing to order a probe. It is expected that the entire municipal machinery will be subjected to scrutiny during the coming months. Mayor Walker is preparing to defend his administration.

A city-wide investigation is a logical outcome of the limited inquiries that have been conducted recently. Corruption was discovered in the courts and the police department. The district attorney's office is under investigation. But all these attempts to strike out corruption are futile. No one individual or group is responsible for the deplorable conditions in New York. It is the system which Tammany Hall has built up that is at fault. Individuals holding out against the ruthless methods of the tiger have been crushed and pushed aside. A probe into the practices of the invisible government is the only hope of getting to the bottom of New York's corruption.

Selection of former Judge Samuel Seabury as chief counsel for the investigating committee is generally commended. Judge Seabury is a capable and fearless prosecutor. He is already conducting the investigations into the magistrates' courts and the district attorney's office. Since he is a Democrat and the investigation was ordered by a Republican Legislature, his choice lifts the inquiry above partisan politics.

The culpability of city officials may be judged largely by their attitude toward this investigation. If they are serving the city with honesty and efficiency they will welcome exposure of corruption, so that it may be eliminated. As matters stand the people of New York have lost faith in their municipal government. Officials have a chance to restore confidence in themselves by cooperating in the general overhauling ordered by the Legislature.

NEW TRAFFIC RULES.

The new traffic regulations which are being drafted for promulgation by the District Commissioners are an outgrowth of increasing congestion on Washington's streets. Traffic moves sluggishly in the rush hours in spite of the city's numerous broad avenues and boulevards. Regulations fashioned for the convenience of motorists must give way to new rules which will best serve the interest of the entire city.

The new parking regulations are a move toward abolition of all parking in the congested area. All-night parking in the heart of the city is to be forbidden, and the heavy morning traffic will be permitted to flow through the downtown area without any hindrance from parked cars. In the congested area parking will be limited to one hour between 8 a. m. and 6 p. m. At no place within the principal business section of the city, extending from Third to Eighteenth streets and from Constitution avenue to N street, will parking be permitted for more than two hours. This means that thousands of cars that are now parked all day in this area will have to be stored or left long distances from their owners' destination. Until the public becomes accustomed to it, this restriction will doubtless seem severe. It is nevertheless necessary to avoid increasing congestion in the business area.

It remains to be seen how the proposed new left-hand turn will work out on Washington's street pattern. Vehicles turning left from the center of the street are to be given the right of way over through traffic, in violation of the common practice of giving through traffic preference. This is certain to result in confusion, and may be a source of frequent accidents.

It is intimated that these are only part of the changes to be made in the traffic regulations by the District Commissioners. The nature of these changes suggests that extensive improvements will be made. Washington is far behind other large cities in the facilitation of its traffic. Its system of signal lights is poorly timed, and in many cases needlessly restricts traffic. The arbitrary speed limit is nearing obsolescence. Every large city has found it necessary to facilitate traffic rather than to restrict it, wherever that can be done without sacrificing safety.

It is well that Washington is taking advantage of expert advice. Application of all features of the model traffic code may not be practical here, but in general its provisions appear to be acceptable. It is to be hoped that the commissioners will continue to study the problem until Washington has the safest and freest flow of traffic of any great city.

GOLD AND SILVER.

The problem of money metals confronts the world. Silver is the sick sister today, with China her last real friend, suffering from dire disorders. Can the price of silver be bolstered? Can the consuming power of China and India be restored? Is the burden getting too heavy for gold to carry alone? Will the appreciation of gold drive prices too low? Less than five years ago silver was selling at 62 cents an ounce; today it is worth about one-half as much.

During the last session of Congress the Senate adopted the Pittman resolution expressing the view that the President should take the lead in calling together representatives of various nations to consider the question of relief for silver.

In this connection the arrival in New York this week of Montague Norman, governor of the Bank of England, is felt to have special significance. He will be asked why Great Britain has demonetized silver in India.

It is believed by some experts that remedial measures might be taken in the way of agreements between nations pegging the price of silver at or around 50 cents, at which price any national holdings would be sold as a minimum, and requirements for subsidiary coinage would be purchased, over a period of years. Other experts point to the failure of attempts to peg the price of wheat, coffee and rubber.

The case of gold is quite the reverse from that of silver. The world's monetary stock of gold is about $10,000,000,000, which is considered to be just about sufficient to meet current needs. The annual production of gold is $400,000,000 a year, but half of this is consumed in nonmonetary uses. This leaves about $200,000,000 for the money marts of the world. The question confronting financiers is not only whether the gold mines can continue producing this amount, but, if world trade continues to increase as it has in recent years, whether the gold supply for monetary purposes must need be increased 2 to 3 per cent a year in order to maintain stable prices.

Gold is in high-priced demand today and is exchangeable for a greatly increased amount of commodities in consequence. Silver is so low that very few mines can afford to produce it. It will be a real task for the monetary doctors to restore a more equitable ratio between the two metals.

SCHOOL OF COMMUNISM

Riga Correspondence of the London Times.

At the industrial conference held in Moscow during the first half of February Stalin, Molotoff and Orjonikidze emphasized that the present year would be a critical one for the Soviet Union, the year on which the success of the five-year plan and the course of future developments would depend. This has now become the approved official view which is being preached from all Soviet platforms and in the Soviet press, emphasis being laid on the ever-increasing importance of the part which men of the younger generation are to play in carrying out the plan to "catch up and pass" the most advanced countries of the West.

The problem of training a smyena, or "relief," to take the place of the band of old guard Communists has occupied a prominent place in the bolshevist program ever since the early days of the revolution, and the first important step toward its solution was taken at the end of 1918, when the Komsomol (Communist League of Youth) was formed. The importance which the Komsomol has gained as an active force in the Soviet Union may be understood in some measure from the official statement at the congress in January that the league has nearly 4,000,000 members.

The Komsomol is called by the bolshevists "The School of Communism." The earliest age for admission is 14 and the oldest age limit is 23 years.

The young men and women who are now being absorbed into the Communist party have no experience or knowledge of life and conditions beyond the Soviet frontiers and remember little or nothing of prerevolutionary Russia. They have passed through Soviet schools, been steeped in the Communist doctrine and been taught to regard this as the only true dogma.

They are convinced that it is their destiny to carry the red flag and faith in the teachings of Leninism to the uttermost parts of the earth, that the day is at hand when the great last fight must begin for the overthrow of the governments and institutions of Britain, Germany, France and other countries. They are told, and the great majority certainly believe, that the ground for the fight has been prepared by the third international, that thrones and governments are already toppling, and that the masses everywhere are ready for the signal to slay their class-enemies.

During and since the period of civil war the Komsomoltsi have always been employed to carry out the most risky experiments, as leaders in the antireligious campaigns, supervisors of officials, teachers and relatives, organizers of collective farms, shock brigades and pacemakers in carrying out the five-year plan.

All the able-bodied youths of the organization are obliged to devote part of their time to military training. Voroshiloff, commissar for war, stated last August that more than half the soldiers in the red army at that time were Komsomoltsi, or had recently left to become fully qualified members of the Communist party. The proportion of Komsomoltsi in the red fleet is still higher.

If the warlike utterances of bolshevist leaders be regarded as the result of habit rather than conviction, and therefore not to be taken at their face value, they are interpreted literally by the masses of the Komsomol and the younger members of the Communist party. They, at least, are preparing for war, and they are coming more and more into posts of influence. Voroshiloff and others repeatedly tell the Komsomoltsi that the red army is the army of international revolution. They believe it. Kaganovich, who ranks with Molotoff as one of Stalin's closest associates, told the congress in January that if they followed the "general line" of the party they could become masters of the world. Talk of this kind, which has been a dominant feature of their training, has turned the youth of Soviet Russia into fanatical megalomaniacs, who are already hustling the older leaders. Their mania has been concentrated on the five-year plan, but they are told and they believe that this plan is merely the prelude to war, the great war for world revolution, the war in which Budenny has publicly promised his cavalry that their horses shall "drink the waters of the Thames."

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

TESTING TIME.

He seemed to be a man; was manly clad.
In days of ease he bravely played the part,
Observed the good; avoided what was bad,
And steered his course precisely to the chart.

But storms arose and bitter days came on,
And he deserted when he should have stayed.
Of courage which he'd boasted he had none,
He saw the gathering clouds—and was afraid.

When asked to stand he shook his head in fear,
He who had seemed so strong on mornings fair,
When cries for help were ringing in his ear,
Calmly replied: "I have no strength to spare."

This thing called manhood never can be guessed.
In days of peace all ships seem stanch and stout;
In days of peace all men appear their best,
A crisis breaks—and then the truth comes out!

If You Would Light Your Little Candle, Take It Where the Blaze Is.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

If you would be a success, cultivate the society of successful men.

If you would have a brilliant mind, match wits with men who are brilliant.

Has it ever occurred to you to wonder why the quality called genius seems to flower in cycles—why generations far apart produce scores of brilliant men and the generations between them are almost barren of genius?

It is because genius feeds on genius. One great mind inspires another.

The glory that was Greece is written in the biographies of a dozen men.

The Golden Age of Pericles, the period of the Renaissance, the time of Dr. Johnson, the New England of Emerson—all these were products of unconscious cooperation.

Romancers try to explain such periods of brilliance by attributing inspirational powers to the stars or to some hidden and accidental combination of earthly influences, but the true explanation is to be found in the power of genius to awake and inspire genius.

Observe, in our day, the influence of Mencken. Whatever posterity may say of his abilities, his work contains some quality that inspires other men to throw off the restraints of custom and glory in raw sincerity.

And in every community where one man of genius appears, sparks from his anvil kindle fires in the soul of youth and light up the way to intellectual freedom.

The world's prophets have been solitary men who communed with God in the desert, but these were giants who found sufficient inspiration in their own great souls.

Lesser men, no matter how great their abilities, get their inspiration from one another. One is steel and the other flint, and they generate the divine spark by contact.

When you read the works of a great man, aren't you inspired for a day or an hour to do better things? The best in you awakens to match the good in him.

Then how much greater would be your inspiration if you met him face to face and matched wits with him in discussion.

By hook or by crook, make contact with minds better than your own. It is the one sure way to develop the power that is in you.

Revising Antitrust Laws.

Philadelphia Public Ledger.

The decision by the Department of Justice to appeal from the recent ruling of the District of Columbia Supreme Court modifying the meat packers' consent decree is an evident challenge to the increasing tendency to judicial alteration of the antitrust laws. In permitting the packers to extend their wholesale operations to unrelated lines of business the Court frankly took into consideration the economic changes that have occurred since 1920, when the original decree was recorded. These, in its opinion, warranted a broadening of the meat packers' legitimate activities.

While the packers have lived up to the letter and spirit of their agreement there has always been a feeling that this method of regulating big business is far from satisfactory. President Hoover has suggested that the antitrust laws require a general overhauling. It would be much better for Congress rather than the courts to liberalize those provisions which have failed to keep pace with changing industrial and business conditions.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Reader Does Not Agree That Substitution of Buses for Street Cars Would Improve Pennsylvania Avenue.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Permit me to say something in connection with Representative Fred Britten's proposal to substitute buses for street cars on Pennsylvania avenue between the Treasury and the Capitol.

As he sees it "this change does not appear to be a serious matter when compared with the difference of having or not having one of the finest downtown thoroughfares in the world."

The object in view, to make the Avenue as attractive as possible, is a good one. But is not Representative Britten getting ahead of the game? It will be time enough to give this particular detail practical attention when the Government's great building program is finished.

I am not entirely certain that the removal of street car tracks and loading platforms would be advisable, although the general appearance of the thoroughfare might be improved. The matter of utility is an important factor in the street improvement equation, and for ordinary service streets cars seem fairly efficient on the Avenue. My thought is that a fleet of lumbering buses substituted for street cars would at times be a source of annoyance and an eyesore—in an inauguration throng, for instance.

The Illinois representative speaks of "the efficient handling of the enormous passenger traffic in downtown London, Paris and Berlin," but the efficient handling of traffic is not necessarily a thing of beauty, and I do not think even the European bus system would improve the looks of Pennsylvania avenue.

There are occasions when our main street, wide as it is, is not roomy enough to accommodate the combination of pedestrians and motor vehicles with any degree of satisfaction. The customary expedient of temporarily eliminating vehicles of all kinds when the convenience of holiday crowds demands it is, according to the way I look at it, as far as extraordinary traffic regulation on the Avenue need go.

After all, the greatest good to the satisfaction of the greatest number should be kept in view in this connection. For my part I would not object if absolute beauty were made the chief aim in regard to the inauguration route from the Capitol to the White House. I would like to have that historic stretch transformed into a pedestrian's sanctuary, with vehicular travel as far as possible underground and for rows of trees, as proposed by Thomas Jefferson, along its entire length.

Whether this would in every respect be satisfactory to the masses I will not venture to guess, but I feel confident it would realize the ideal Pennsylvania avenue of the future which Representative Britten would like to see. W. T. T.

Protests Against Exclusion of Ella Young, Irish Poetess.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The Post carries the news that the State Department has upheld the action of the American Consul at Victoria, B. C., in refusing entrance into the United States, under the British quota, to Miss Ella Young, the Irish poet and scholar.

I should like to call the attention of your readers to a letter from Charles Erskine Scott Wood, the American poet and essayist, printed in the Saturday Review of Literature for March 14, 1931.

Mr. Wood, in this letter, points out that the action of the American Consul is based upon the ground that Miss Young "may" become a public charge, when the law forbids entrance to those "likely" to become a public charge. Now anyone "may" become a public charge, but only some are likely to. Mr. Wood presents evidence that Miss Young is not likely to.

He mentions that the poetess is in vigorous health and has never been sick; that she is enjoying a small but substantial income from the royalties on her previously published works; that she is in great demand as a lecturer—in fact, is at present under request for a course of lectures to be delivered at the University of California. Finally Mr. Wood adds that four citizens of San Francisco, including himself, have filed with the Consul a written agreement that they will hold the United States and every state and every municipality therein harmless against Miss Young ever becoming a public charge. The aggregate of this responsibility, says Mr. Wood, is millions of dollars.

It is therefore pertinent to inquire whether the State Department knows of this evidence, and, if it does, how it can justify the statement that it has not yet received concrete evidence that Miss Young is able to support herself.

In this case, where not only an injustice to this artist but also a loss to American culture and scholarship can very easily be brought about, hasty official acts are to be deplored.

Venders of Flowers Should Not Be Run Off the Streets.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I have been hearing a good deal about an effort the florists are making to do away with the sale of flowers in the streets of Washington. I also hear over the radio appeals to the public to do their part in the clean-up and beautifying of the City of Washington, which is to be "the most beautiful city in the world."

In behalf of that appeal, as well as that of thousands of lovers of flowers who can pay 35 cents for a bunch of roses or sweet peas or tulips to the street venders when they can not afford the dollars charged for the same by the florists, I send this letter for publication. In these times of unemployment it is cruel and inconsiderate to try to drive the flower sellers off the streets.

They make one of the most attractive features in our city, and certainly the florists will not be so selfish as to destroy the enterprise and business of the few who can make an honest living and bring such delight to the eyes and homes of all lovers of flowers. S. W. COOLIDGE.

TWO MORE ARE HELD IN DUCE DEATH PLOT

Police Charge Pair Belongs to Bomb Gang Headed by Italian-American.

Rome, March 25 (A.P.).—Two more arrests, in connection with plots against the life of Premier Benito Mussolini were announced today by Italian secret police "Ovra." Authorities said the men arrested were members of a bombing gang headed by Michele Schirru, a naturalized American citizen, who was arrested February 3, and is awaiting trial.

Police did not disclose what preparations had been made in the conspiracy against the premier by the newly-arrested men, Ersilio Belloni and Luigo Delfini. However, it was said they planned the execution of criminal acts, but were taken into custody March 4.

Considerable secrecy is being maintained about the plot in order not to hamper police in their search for additional members of the gang, including two who are said to be operating outside of Italy. Authorities said Belloni and Delfini returned to the country from Switzerland after the arrest of Schirru.

At the time of his arrest Schirru had two high explosive bombs in his baggage. He fired several shots at police, and then shot himself in the head. At that time police announced that he planned a series of acts of political terrorism. Later they gave out an alleged confession in which Schirru, said to have lived in New York, admitted he was an anarchist and planned to kill Mussolini.

The naturalized American is soon to stand trial before a special tribunal for the defense of the State.

tire question of whether the Austro-German customs treaty violates the Geneva protocol and the St. Germain Treaty would be put up to the council of the League of Nations, in a suggestion made today by Geat Britain.

Henderson Outlines Stand.

After a luncheon at the British Embassy with Aristide Briand, French foreign minister, Arthur Henderson, the British foreign minister, issued a communique correcting the impression that his government had made no representation to Vienna on the subject of the economic agreement with Germany. He announced that Downing street had suggested the matter be referred to the League Council.

The customs accord is understood to have dominated, though unofficially, the meeting here of the committee for organizing Briand's proposal for a European union. Although the conference adjourned today until May 15, members for a day or so will continue unofficial discussions of the trade treaty between Germany and Austria.

The British suggestion that the Council of the League of Nations attend to the matter of the agreement appears to find favor with Pierre Laval, French premier, Briand and other officials. But strong opposition is reported among conservative groups in the Chamber of Deputies. They are said to be demanding that M. Briand immediately define the French government's attitude. Otherwise they threaten to make the affair an issue of confidence.

Bruening Backs Accord.

Berlin, March 25 (A.P.).—Chancellor Bruening today told Sir Horace Rumbild, the British Ambassador, that the projected customs union between Germany and Austria is entirely within the bounds of the Geneva protocol of April, 1922, and that in his opinion there is no reason for taking the agreement before the League of Nations Council.

If other governments want to examine its legal aspects, he said, Germany and Austria will not object and there is no reason for them to fear the outcome of such an examination.

But the proposed accord is purely an economic matter, said Chancellor Bruening, and the German government considers it inadmissible to submit the agreement to examination from a political viewpoint.

Germany and Austria are going ahead with their negotiations, Herr Bruening told the Ambassador, but it will probably be two or three months before the agreement is concluded, in view of the numerous technical details.

Sir Horace had come with a formal inquiry as to Germany's intentions, at the direction of Arthur Henderson. He repeated to the chancellor Mr. Henderson's stand that in the interest of all parties concerned the Austro-German accord be discussed jointly and that its conclusion be deferred until after the next meeting of the League of Nations Council.

The gathering is one of the most picturesque and colorful assemblages in the world. There are representatives of scores of religious sects, speaking dozens of India's 222 dialects. There are Hindus from Madras in the south, nearly as dark as Negroes; alert, chocolate-colored Bengalis; tall, lean Pathans from the frontiers of Afghanistan; huge, bearded Sikhs; small, Mongolian-featured Burmese; thin-legged, middle-caste Hindus from the plains of the Ganges, and tiny, slant-eyed mountain people from the Ghurka country in the north.

6,000 Delegates Ready.

On the foreheads of many of the Hindus are orange or red spots of sandal paste, or horizontal bars of V-shaped marks indicating their caste.

The congress meetings are being held in a great temporary "city" covering 2½ square miles especially laid out for the convention on the outskirts of Karachi. Seven hundred temporary structures of matting were erected. In this temporary city the 6,000 delegates eat, sleep and will hold their meetings. Electric lights and telephones have been installed.

The principal meetings will be held in a great "Pandal," or tent of matting, which has a sloping floor like a theater. The floor is covered with tarpaulin. There are no seats. The delegates will squat on the floor in native fashion. A long dais fitted with modern electric loud speakers has been arranged for the speakers.

"POT LIKKER."

GOV. HUEY P. LONG hits the front page of the newspapers with a story about "pot likker." I think of Gov. Long as a very astute politician, but not as a man of wisdom or a statesman. Least of all do I esteem him as a promoter of public health. But he is all to the good on his main theme in the newspaper story.

"Pot liquor is what the scientists would call a decoction of good vegetables. It is the liquor of vegetables though the liquor is modified somewhat. It is all that part of the vegetables that will go into solution when heated. To start with, therefore, it is rich in vitamins, in coloring matters and in mineral salts. It is just for these that we eat most vegetables, and pot liquor is the cream of what we are after. It also contains some of the calorie elements, some sugar, starch, fat and protein; such of these as are easily dissolved."

There is a fad now for feeding strained vegetables. Well, that's what pot liquor is. There is a fad for feeding pureed vegetables. Pot liquor comes to be about the same objective. Both are good fads.

It is a sterile food. It is diluted, but not so dilute as soup. To improve its value somewhat some meat and fat are added. Such is pot liquor. Children that get it are generally rosy and fat, and their skin is shiny.

I refuse to be drawn into any fight over the momentous question of drinking with corn pone. That is a side issue and may have been raised as a camouflage. I had rather save all my powder for the onslaught against pot liquor.

But among the garnishments added by Gov. Long was chitterlings. That will be a new food to many people. Those with no dictionary at hand will appreciate an explanation. Chitterlings are intestines. We have long eaten tripe and many prefer their bologna and little pig in casings. Thus, eating the digestive tract is not new. It was once the custom to eat pepsin foods, such as tripe, papaws and papaya. That custom fell into disuse, but as soon as it did tripe took its place by the side of liver as a food-medicine for the cure of anemia.

There are those who have claimed virtues in extracts of intestinal glands as digestive agents. These claims may not stand up, but who can say that physiologists will not discover other virtues in digestive tract wall and that physicians will never prescribe chitterlings?

FOLLOW DOCTOR'S ADVICE.

L. A. writes: I am 15 years old and have Bright's disease, following an attack of influenza two years ago. I swell badly. My face is swollen in the morning and my legs at night. My physician has given me a diet. Will you please give me a diet and tell me what I should eat and what I can and can not do?

REPLY.

My advice is that you follow your physician's directions. Get a small book on the subject to help you carry out his directions. We have one that sells for 10 cents and a stamped, addressed envelope. As I estimate it, your ox is in the ditch and you had better think and act wisely. It would be unwise for you to have any outsider direct you.

NEW WITNESS SAYS BROTHERS AT SCENE

Accused Left Subway With Foster After Death of Lingle, He Avers.

Criminal Courts Building, Chicago, March 25 (A.P.).—The Leo Brothers murder trial jury was told by an eye witness today that three men scampered out of the Randolph street pedestrian subway after Alfred "Jake" Lingle was assassinated last June, that Brothers was one of those men and Frank Foster, Chicago gangster, was another.

Otto Swoboda, born in Bohemia, and for many years a chef, occupied the witness stand most of the day. For the most part his testimony corroborated that of Warren Williams, who testified yesterday.

Then Swoboda suddenly tossed a bombshell into the court proceedings. "Yes," he said on cross-examination, "he had seen pictures of Foster, who has been indicted for the murder and admitted to bail."

"Did you ever see Foster?" he was asked.

Man That Lit Cigarette.

"Yes, sir," replied Swoboda. "He was the man that lit this man's cigaret (indicating the defendant) when I saw them just before the shooting."

"Then Foster was the man in the blue suit, the man who ran west through the tunnel after the shooting?"

"Yes."

The defense brought out, in cross-examining Coroner Herman N. Bundesen yesterday, that the bullet that killed Lingle was fired from a pistol traced to Foster, and Brothers' attorneys have consistently tried to impress on the jury that Foster has been indicted for the murder of the Chicago Tribune police reporter.

Both Williams and Swoboda, the two eyewitnesses to appear so far, admitted having received money from the State's attorney's office. Williams has been on the regular pay roll as an investigator at a salary of $200 a month, but Swoboda said he received only about $300 and his expenses whenever he went out of town to look at suspects.

All Expenses Paid.

He was questioned at length about his financial dealings with Pat Roche, chief investigator for the State's attorney's office. He estimated that various sums given him by Roche would total about $300. He also said all of his expenses were paid when he went to Terre Haute, Ind., and to Louisville, Ky., to look at suspects.

The witness said he did not expect to get any more money because of his testimony, and stated that he had no hopes of collecting any of the $55,000 reward offered for the capture and conviction of Lingle's slayer.

Swoboda was still on the stand after two hours' continuous cross-examination when court adjourned for the day.

$100 in Jewelry Stolen.

The apartment of Arlene Forcey at 1618 Sixteenth street northwest was entered Tuesday by a thief who took jewelry valued at $100, according to report made to police headquarters yesterday.

WILL OF LAST WENDEL FILED

The late Ella Virginia von Echtzel-Wendel, last of the landwealthy and mysterious New York family, whose will, bequeathing the bulk of the estate, estimated at more than $100,000,000, to charity, was filed in New York. In this picture, one of the few known of her, she is shown with her pet and companion, Tobey. No provision was made for the poodle in the will, but it is expected that friends will take care of it.

DEFICIT TO BE MET BY TREASURY BILLS

$100,000,000 in 90-Day Notes Will Be Sold to Pay U. S. Expenses.

(Associated Press.)

Plans for raising $100,000,000 to meet Government expenses in the face of a prospective $700,000,000 Treasury deficit were announced yesterday by Secretary Mellon.

The Treasury Secretary said 90-day Treasury bills totaling $100,000,000 or thereabouts, would be issued. The money will be used in meeting loans to World War veterans and for Government expenses.

The bills will be sold on a discount basis to the highest bidders and tenders will be received next Monday at the Federal Reserve Banks.

Meanwhile, the latest Treasury statement showed a further drop in income tax collections, making the total for the month on last Monday $313,035,292 compared with $517,063,027 for the same period last year.

Offering Forecast by Bureau.

An offering of Treasury bills was forecast recently when the Veterans' Bureau called upon the Treasury for $500,000,000 before April 11. The Treasury had provided only $300,000,000 for the bureau until the close of June, believing that sufficient. Applications for loans, however, were much larger than had been expected and $300,000,000 raised through sale of certificates of indebtedness was found inadequate.

Advocates of the veterans' loan legislation, however, have contended it would have no effect on the Treasury deficit, since a fund had been created to provide for the loans.

Veterans' Administrator Hines announced yesterday 1,571,291 veterans had applied for loans, and if the $377 average of the 501,203 checks already mailed was maintained a total of approximately $600,000,000 would be needed.

The Treasury faces a deficit at the end of the fiscal year on June 30 of $700,000,000 or more, due to increasing expenditures and declining revenue, intensified by a drop in income-tax collections.

Sale of Treasury Bills.

For the fiscal year the income-tax collections have dropped to $1,484,466,317, from $1,770,437,169 in the same period last year. The Government had a deficit of $597,082,557 on last Monday, while on the same day last year it had a surplus of $109,932,555.

The sale of Treasury bills is expected to be followed soon by other financing to raise additional money needed.

It had been expected Treasury bills would be the first form of financing, because money can be obtained cheap by that means. Officials have refused to say what form of financing would be adopted to meet the deficit; but with more than $3,000,000,000 short-term paper outstanding, it was regarded as possible that a long-term bond issue might be employed.

U. S. Speeds Work For Unemployed

Secretary Doak Sees Aid for Idle as Harvesters of 1931 Crops.

(Associated Press.)

Efforts to find a job for the man now unemployed and to decrease chances that he might be out of one in the future were speeded up yesterday by Government departments.

Expansion of the employment service to obtain work for as many men as possible in harvesting crops was announced by Secretary Doak. At the same time the Federal Employment Stabilization Board said a director would be named shortly to administer advance planning of public works in an effort to prevent future depressions.

The board added that a nucleus of an expert staff had been transferred from the public construction division of the Commerce Department. Secretary Doak made his announcement after conferences with George E. Tucker, of Kansas City, director of the farm labor division of the employment service, and C. W. Woodman, of Fort Worth, assistant director.

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES OF CAPITAL

New Arrivals Taking Homes In Georgetown

Col. H. L. Roosevelts and Whitney Seymours Are From New York.

WASHINGTON boasts many distinguished residents who come here from all parts of the country, some to reside for the duration of their terms in official capacity, and others who wish to partake of the many entertainments the Capital offers as a residential city.

Col. and Mrs. Henry Latrobe Roosevelt, of Roosevelt Hall, Skaneateles, N. Y., and Mr. and Mrs. Whitney Seymour, of New York, are the most recent recruits to Capital society. Col. Roosevelt has been living in Paris, and he and his family have just returned to this country. Mr. Seymour came to Washington a short time ago as associate attorney in the Department of Justice.

The Roosevelts, with one of their children, Miss Eleanor Katherine Roosevelt, have just concluded a flying visit to Washington, which they made for the purpose of purchasing a home. They have bought Mrs. Pendleton Mayo's residence in Georgetown, at 3023 Q street, and will return to Washington in June or July to take possession. Col. and Mrs. Roosevelt have two sons, William Morrow Roosevelt and Henry Latrobe Roosevelt, jr. Although Col. Roosevelt resigned from the Marine Corps about ten years ago, after establishing a brilliant record, he maintains the rank of colonel.

Mr. and Mrs. Seymour will likewise become established in Georgetown. Having only been here for wo weeks, they are busy getting settled in the Dunthorne house, at 3304 N street, which they have just taken over. They have two young sons.

Quaint old Georgetown seems to be having more than is share of "innings." For coupled with this news is the fact that Senator Millard Tydings will soon give up his N street residence. The Military Attache of the British Embassy, Col. Maurice Fitzmaurice Day, and Mrs. Day, have leased it for two months, and will take possession on April 1. Senator Tydings, incidentally, has sold his home although the name of the purchaser is withheld.

He is building a stone house in Havre de Gras, Md., his "home town." The house is about half completed.

Mr. and Mrs. Leland Harrison will join the colony in Georgetown. They have just acquired a plot at R and Thirty-second streets, opposite the Robert Woods Bliss place, where they propose to build a spacious residence. Since Mr. Harrison came to Washington to assume his duties as a member of the tariff commission he and Mrs. Harrison have been residing at 1735 Massachusetts avenue.

Mrs. Kelley to Entertain Mexican Ambassador.

The Ambassador of Mexico and Senora de Tellez will be the guests in whose honor Mrs. William Fitch Kelley will entertain at dinner tomorrow.

The Ambassador of Italy and Donna Antoinetta de Martino will entertain at dinner on Saturday evening at the embassy. The ambassador was the ranking guest last night at a dinner given by the Assistant Secretary of State and Mrs. Wilbur J. Carr.

In honor of Prince Nobuhito Takamatsu, second brother of Emperor Hirohito of Japan, who will spend a few days in Washington, the Japanese Ambassador and Mme. Debuchi will give a dinner on April 16. Several official functions will honor the royal visitor's stay. He will arrive in New York April 10, accompanied by the princess, and will come to Washington on April 15. Prince and Princess Takamatsu are on the final lap of a year's honeymoon around the world.

The Ambasssador of Brazil, S. Gurgel do Amaral, will be the guest at luncheon today at the Pan-American Union of his colleagues on the governing board of the Pan-American Union. Those present at the luncheon will include the Secretary of State, Mr. Henry L. Stimson, who is chairman of the governing board, and the ambassadors, ministers and charges d'affaires of the other American republics accredited to Washington.

Ambassador do Amaral has been a member of the governing board since his arrival at Washington in June, 1925, and at present is vice chairman of the board.

The Minister of China, Mr. Wu, left yesterday for Providence, R. I., where he will give an address this noon before the chamber of commerce. Tonight the Minister will be in Hartford, Conn., where he will speak at Brushnell Hall under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. At the meeting will be Gov. Cross of Cannecticut and Mayor Batterson of Hartford. The Minister will return on Saturday.

The Minister of Roumania, Mrs. Charles A. Davila, is the guest of Capt. R. Amcotts Wilson and Mrs. Wilson at Palm Beach, Fla. Other guests of Capt. and Mrs. Wilson are Mrs. William Randolph Hearst and Mrs. Malcolm L. Meacham.

On account of illness, Mrs. Henry Dimock has been obliged to cancel the dinner planned in honor of Chief Justice and Mrs. Hughes on Saturday evening.

Pratts to Entertain With Dinner.

Commander and Mrs. Lester L. Pratt will be among those to entertain at dinner preceding the United States Navy and Marine Corps ball at the Willard on April 8.

MISS ALISON O'BRIAN, a student at Smith College, arrived in Washington recently to visit her parents, the Assistant to the Attorney General, Mr. John Lord O'Brian and Mrs. O'Brian.

Ship Bringing Belgian Envoy To Washington

Mr. May, New Ambassador, Was Attache Here 35 Years Ago.

When the Berengaria docks at New York tomorrow, it will bring back to the United States and to Washington Mr. Paul May, new Ambassador of Belgium, who comes as his country's envoy to the city he made his temporary home 35 years ago when he was attache of the embassy here. Successor to Prince de Ligne, envoy to the United States for several years, the new Ambassador's arrival fills the high post left vacant several months ago. He will be met in New York by Viscount de Lantsheere, First Secretary of the Embassy, who went to the metropolis last night.

The Ambassador will arrive alone. Mrs. May is remaining abroad for a short time but will follow some time soon and probably will be accompanied by their three daughters.

After Mr. May's first diplomatic post in Washington he served at the legations in Constantinople, Japan, China and London. When the World War broke out he was Minister to Mexico, later serving as Minister to China, Sweden, Finland and Brazil. With the background of almost the entire world behind him and first hand impressions of the Western world one of his cherished memories, the Ambassador comes to Washington under auspicious circumstances.

Far back, in the mauve decade, while an attache at Washington, the youthful envoy liked to spend his summer holidays at Newport. A delightful story emanates from Mr. May himself who recalls the day in 1896 at the fashionable resort when he drove a fine tandem pair at the horse show, "of which I was frightfully proud and won a flattering success. In those days after a twelve-day crossing on the Atlantic, we drove uptown in New York in a horse drawn vehicle to the Waldorf-Astoria —almost prehistoric, isn't it?"

Mrs. May is the daughter of Mr. Raphael George Levy, French economist and former senator.

Prince de Ligne, former Ambassador, and Princess de Ligne are now at their home in Brussels and with them are their daughters, Princess Elizabeth de Ligne and Princess Antoinette de Ligne.

Senator Royal S. Copeland, of New York, has returned to the Willard for a few days.

Capt. John M. Enochs, who is in command of the U. S. S. Pennsylvania, is bound for a month's practice cruise in southern waters. The Pennsylvania is a sister ship of the Arizona, on which President Hoover is making his West Indies cruise.

Mrs. Enochs is in Alexandria with her mothers, Mrs. Thomas Edward Kernan. Before her recent marriage she was Miss Elizabeth Randolph Shirley.

Mr. Carmi Alderman Thompson, of Cleveland, is at the Willard for a few days. Mr. Thompson was the special commissioner to the Philipine Islands in 1926.

Mrs. Arthur Keith will give an illustrated lecture on "Oberammergau" this evening at 8:15 in the auditorium of the Interior Department. Mrs. Keith will be assisted by Mr. Ambrose Durkin, baritone; Mrs. Rose Maxwell Dickey, violinist; Mrs. G. F. Loughlin, pianist, and Dr. G. F. Loughlin, flutist. This lecture is given under the auspices of the American Association of University Women, of which Mrs. Keith is a member. Members of the junior group of the association will usher.

Dr. Campbell Dinner Host to Mrs. Marchant.

A dinner was given by Dr. John A. Campbell last night in the presidential suite of the Willard, in honor of Mrs. Langworthy Marchant. Dr. Campbell's guests were: Dr. Bernard Mayo, Mrs. Bernard Mayo, Dr. Edward A. McMahon, Mrs. Edward A. McMahon, Mrs. Langworthy Marchant, Miss Anyda Marchant, Miss A. DeArmond Marchant, Mr. Alexander Marchant and Mr. Cyrus L. Burnett.

Political Club Women Active In Entertaining

Democrats, Republicans and City Group Are Planning Teas.

Women with "party" affiliations are mingling politics and tea these days, with nearly every one in the week featuring a delightful program of some sort. Tomorrow the League of Republican Women will give a tea at national headquarters, and the annual tea of the Women's City Club will take place from 4:30 until 6:30 o'clock at their building in Jackson place.

Furthermore, the Democratic women are celebrating every day this week, small informal teas marking the afternoons.

Mrs. Edward Everett Gann will be the guest of honor assisting Mrs. Edward A. Harriman, president of the League of Republican Women, at a tea at National Republican Headquarters, at 910 Farragut square, for members and their out-of-town guests tomorrow from 4 to 6 o'clock.

Mrs. Marion Butler is in charge of the function, and those assisting in the hospitalities of the afternoon will be Mrs. Patrick Hurley, Mrs. Jacob Leander Loose, Mrs. Henry Alvah Strong, Miss Isabelle Sedgley, Mrs. William Wheatley and Mrs. Marcus Benjamin.

The hostesses for the tea of the Woman's National Democratic Club this afternoon will be Mrs. Burton K. Wheeler and Mrs. Charles Warren, who will be assisted by Mrs. George M. Eckels, Mrs. Samuel Herrick, Mrs. H. E. C. Bryant, Miss Anna G. Connolly, Mrs. Edgar B. Kay and Mrs. Milton Elliott.

Mrs. Cordell Hull will preside at the tea tomorrow.

Mr. Daniel C. Roper will be the guest of honor and speaker at the weekly forum luncheon which the club will give Monday. He will talk of "A Visit to the Hermitage," the home of Gen. Andrew Jackson, about 12 miles from Nashville, Tenn.

Tea is being served every afternoon this week and until March 31 as a feature of the membership drive which the club is conducting.

At the annual tea of the life members of the Women's City Club today Mrs. Luther C. Reichelderfer, Mrs. Herbert B. Crosby, Mrs. John C. Gotwals, Mrs. Eleanor Patterson, Dr. Ellen Spencer Mussey and Mrs. Archibald Hopkins have been invited to receive with the president, Mrs. William Lee Corbin.

Miss Janet Richards, Miss Jessie M. Dell, Dr. A. Frances Foye, Mrs. Francis D. Merchant, Dean Grace Hays Riley, Mrs. J. Leo Kolb, Miss Adela L. Heaven, Mrs. Henry Fitzhugh, Mrs. Charles Stewart Alden, Mrs. David Hunt Blair, Mrs. Peter Drury, Mrs. Bruce Baird and Mrs. Merritt O. Chance will assist as hostesses.

Mrs. Clyde B. Aitchison will preside at the tea tables and will be assisted by Mrs. Truman Abbe, Miss Lou E. Ballenger, Miss Laura M. Berrien, Mrs. Laura A. Bradley, Mrs. Frank Bright, Mrs. Burnita Shelton Matthews, Miss Cora Emelie Noyes, Miss Nell V. Price, Mrs. E. R. Sauf, Mrs. M. L. Whitmarsh and Miss Elizabeth Raymond.

A one-act play will be presented at 5:30 o'clock by the author, Miss Alice M. Heaven. Judge Mary O'Toole is chairman of the committee.

Mme. Lessinoff Is Married to Mr. Del Mar

Bride's Two Children Are Sole Attendants at the Wedding.

Mme. Paul Lessinoff and Mr. Carlos Florio del Mar were married yesterday just before noon in the Church of the Covenant, the Rev. Dr. Albert Joseph McCartney performing the ceremony. Only the bride's two children, Mrs. William North Sturtevant and her son, a student in Washington, were present at the service. Immediately afterward a luncheon was held at the home of the bride. For her wedding costume the bride wore a simple gown of dark cloth with a matching coat and hat.

Mr. and Mrs. del Mar left for a wedding trip to Havana, Miami and Palm Beach and will be at home after April 15 at 2438 Belmont road.

The bride is the widow of Dr. Paul Lessinoff, counselor of the Bulgarian legation in London in 1927 and later charge d'affaires at The Hague. She was presented at the Court of St. James in 1928 and 1929 and to the former King and Queen of Portugal and also the Queen of Spain. In 1925 she was presented at the court of Bulgaria and in the same year to the King and Queen of the Belgians, to the Queen of Holland and the prince consort and in 1929 she represented the Bulgarian government at the official dinner given at the palace at The Hague on February 29.

Mr. Del Mar is a New Yorker although his paternal grandfather was born in Spain. His mother was Elizabeth Haddaway, of Talbot County, Maryland; her ancestor, Roland Haddaway, born in Lancashire, England, was given a large grant of land on the Eastern Shore in 1587, a tract which is still in possession of the Haddaway family. Mr. del Mar is a prominent clubman of Washington and New York.

Mrs. William D. Thomas, wife of Lieut. Comdr. Thomas, U. S. N., is spending a few days in New York.

Mrs. P. de M. Barbey, of Boston, has returned to Washington after spending several months in Florida.

The Thursday Morning Club of Epiphany Church will hold the last luncheon of the Lenten season today in the Parish Hall from 12:30 until 2 o'clock.

Mrs. Wistar Balderston, chairman, will be assisted by Mrs. William E. Pearson, Mrs. Andrew Duvall, Mrs. Benjamin F. Iden, jr., Miss Bertha Marsh, Mrs. J. Douglas Rollow, and Mrs. Richard Gray Park, jr.

Hydes Dinner Guests Tonight Of Mrs. Teague

Mrs. Albers Entertains at Luncheon, Honoring Mrs. Deneen.

The Secretary of Agriculture and Mrs. Arthur M. Hyde and Representative and Mrs. Arthur M. Free, of California, will be ranking guests at a dinner this evening at the Mayflower, given by Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Teague.

Mrs. Hyde was the ranking guest at a luncheon given yesterday by Mrs. Henry Albers in compliment to Mrs. Charles S. Deneen, wife of the former senator from Illinois. The company also included Mrs. Frank W. Mondell, Mrs. Virginia White Speel, Miss Grace Burton, niece of the late Senator Burton; Mrs. Harry K. Daugherty, Mrs. Jefferson Myers, wife of the commissioner of the Shipping Board; Mrs. Ellis a Yost, director of the women's division of the national Republican committee, and Mrs. Rose Anthon, of Chicago, who is the guest of Mrs. Deneen.

A card party for the benefit of Arkansas and Kentucky drought sufferers will be given by the Confederate Flag Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy at the Raleigh Hotel tonight.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Robb will have with them for the Easter holidays their daughter, Miss Cecilia Calvert Robb, who will arrive tomorrow accompanied by two of her classmates at Bryn Mawr College, Miss Polly Barnitz, of Chestnut Hill, Pa., and Miss Margaret Collier, of Germantown.

Mr. Charles S. Robb, jr., who is at Williams College, will also spend the holidays with his parents, who reside in Edgemoor, at 5515 Moorland lane.

Col. George Rodman Goethals, of New York, is at the Willard for a few days.

FEDERAL permission was given four broadcasting stations affiliated with the Columbia Broadcasting System to experiment with synchronization scheme on the 1,480 kilocycle channel. Each of the stations will use a special frequency control apparatus, which, without the use of land wires, will maintain the carrier frequency of each station so constant and so accurately that any difference in frequency among the stations will be inaudible and therefore unobjectionable.

The four stations are WHP, Harrisburg, Pa.; WCAH, Columbus, Ohio; WHEC, Rochester, N. Y., and WOKO, Albany, N. Y. The experiment will begin in about six weeks, when the special equipment, costing $1,800 per station, will be installed.

Arrangements have been completed for the rebroadcasting in this country tomorrow morning of the running of the Grand National Steeplechase, at Aintree, England. Clem McCarthy, NBC turf expert, will describe the race for the WJZ network. WRC will not broadcast the account because the 9:45 a. m. period is devoted to a commercial program for housewives.

Tonight, speaking from a hotel in Liverpool, Lord Derby and McCarthy will give preliminary information on the steeplechase (WEAF, 6 p. m.).

Helmut H. Hellmut, young German roving reporter, who recently arrived in the United States to broadcast descriptions of representative American scenes to Germany, will wander down to the Statue of Liberty for that purpose this morning. Part of his talk will be broadcast in America also (WRC, 11:45 a. m.).

RETURNING to the air for a new series, the Kodak Week-end hour will be heard tomorrow evening (WRC, 10 o'clock). As before, the program will present Countess Olga Albani, Spanish soprano, and the Men About Town Trio.

The R-K-O Theater of the Air will have Peggy Hopkins Joyce as guest star tomorrow night. (WRC, 10:30 o'clock).

Shaemas O'Sheel, poet, will talk on "Bringing Greek Drama to the Moderns" this morning (WMAL, 11 o'clock).

SPIRITUAL and folk songs will be sung by Paul Robeson, the Negro baritone, tonight (WJZ, 9:30 o'clock).

The Grand Central Red Caps male quartet will be the "extra something" on the Cliquot Club program tomorrow night (WRC, 9 o'clock).

The popular recording voice of Gene Austin will soon be a feature of the NBC network offerings.

WBBM, through Leslie Atlass, CBS Middle Western manager, is reported to have issued an order to its sales department that all future advertising is to be limited to 200 words per half-hour.

GENE and Glenn, who bring Jake and Lena to listeners over WRC each morning, have traced Lena's lineage to Shakespeare.

Gene made his first stage appearance at Hull House in Chicago when about nine years old and his piping young voice was used to interpret the part of "Cobweb" in "Midsummer Night's Dream."

Since, he says, his original stage appearance was in Shakespeare and he originally interpreted a woman's part, Lena dates back to Shakespeare.

A Interprets the MODE

Gunmetal suede cloth coat with chic details in the pockets and cuffs, and ermine collar tied in bow effect in the back.

Paris, March 25.

HURRAY for the return of silk gloves! Oh, yes, silk gloves are really smart, or will be, rather, for summer, nor need you be afraid that any one will mistake the wearing of them for a gesture of economy. On the contrary, my dear, there is no economy to them in the initial cost at least, because they cost quite as much as any kid glove and very often a great deal more. This is because silk gloves can have more elaborate handwork done on them than kid gloves and since this is a time of handwork you can understand how they could be expensive.

Long silk gloves in fairly vivid colors, but perfectly plain and untrimmed, are delightful to look at and delightful to wear for both chic and comfort with printed chiffon or georgette summer frocks. With a printed frock, of course, your gloves have to be very plain, but with a plain color in a dress one could indulge in some discreet shirring or tucking or embroidery on the glove.

Suzanne Talbot's summer gloves of lace or tulle or net are simply darling and always match or contrast the dress—but I've told you about those before. I didn't tell you, however, about Lanvin's long black chiffon gloves worn with a black chiffon dress, and how the dress had a belt of black paillettes, while the gloves had very large cuffs of the same paillettes which draped the arm right at the elbow!

Only one couturier attempts to bring the mitten back, and that is Ardanse. Personally, I don't think that they are as modern and as chic as the other silk and chiffon and fabric gloves, but they are there for those who want them.

Have you got lovely hair, and do you perhaps look better in evening clothes than you do in street clothes for this very reason? To tell you frankly, that's my situation exactly and that's why I was particularly smitten by this hat when I saw it. What hat? Oh, I forgot to tell you—I mean the hat I saw on a certain very chic Parisian mannequin and then had to move heaven and earth to find where to buy! Then I had to buy one, and then sit down and make a leaflet so that you could make as many as you wanted of them for the summer.

It's a little bonnet that fits on the very back of the head, and just seems to have about enough to it to hold it together—and to hold your coiffure in place. And it's fairly easy to make, but you must have the detailed instructions for doing so—and these you can have by simply sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare department of The Washington Post.

I thought it was a terribly smart coat, honestly I did, so I just devoured the lady who was wearing it with my eyes, until I'm sure she didn't know what to think. But I wanted to sketch it for you front and back, and I did, and there it is in all of its smartness! It was a sort of a gun metal gray suede cloth and ermine trimmed, and the pockets and cuffs need no explaining.

Although turquoise as a fashionable color is really finished, blue, especially in the pale shades which one sees for both sports wear and evening wear, is by no means demode. But let me tell you that pale blue is a great deal harder to wear than turquoise, which has enough green in it to be becoming to both blondes and brunettes. Pale blue has a decided tendency to sallow the skin, and unless you have very decided coloring, is not the best color for either a brunette or a titian type to wear.

Color, line and length of your costume are discussed in Dare's next weekly fashion letter. Look for it in Sunday's Washington Post.

Au revoir!

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

CHANGING ivy vine which I have carefully tended has suddenly developed a web-like growth under some of the leaves. These particular leaves are turning yellow and dropping off. Please suggest a remedy.

MARTHA M. B.

Your ivy has been attacked by red spiders. Daily spraying with a forceful stream of cold water will as a rule quickly rid a plant of this pest. In cases where water proves a failure, nicotine will cause the insects to disappear.

Will canterbury bells which came up last fall but were never transplanted be likely to bloom this spring or summer if moved when the weather permits?

MRS. J. B.

Yes. Be sure to add some bonemeal to the soil before transplanting these seedlings.

Please tell me why the leaves on my aspidistras are turning yellow.

M. E. D.

Lack of sun, water or fresh air will cause the leaves of an aspidistra to become dry and yellow. The leaves of plants which are even a trifle pot-bound are apt to become yellow. The aspidistra should be watered in a warm room every day and the foliage should be sprayed once a week.

Please explain the condition of the incised aspidistra leaf.

MRS. B. FRANK S.

Please read answer to M. E. D. in this column.

Please tell me how to rid my house and tulips of spiders.

MRS. V.

As a rule daily spraying of cold water will rid plants of spiders, but, of course, you can not spray your carpets and all the woodwork in your house. If you care to write again, inclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope, I shall be glad to send you the name of a proprietary preparation which will rid both plants and house of these insects.

Please tell me what to do for both my ivy and my begonia.

MRS. J. F. McK.

Your ivy is covered with scale, judging by the leaf you inclosed. The begonia is suffering from the warm, dry air of the house and possibly from too much or too little water. Try keeping water on your radiator. This will cause the air to become more humid, which will be better for your family as well as your plants. Begin to water your begonias in a sufficient amount to moisten all the soil in the pot, applying the water only every other day. To remove the scale from the ivy it will be necessary to go over the entire plant with a small brush and literally scrub away the insects. When the plant is clean, remove it for a few days to some cool place and in the future spray the foliage twice each week with cold soapy water.

Please tell me how to make geraniums bloom in the winter. The plants to which I refer are plants started from slips last August. The plants are outdoors in a pit.

MRS. B. T. G.

If you mean a hotbed when you speak of a "pit," and the bed faces the south, I see no reason why geraniums should not begin to bloom there. Plants started in August should be at this time beginning to bloom. Of course, they must be watered and should be growing in rather small pots. In a cold frame they might not be getting sufficient sun.

All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift, directly in this column if addressed in care of The Washington Post, or directly to readers if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is supplied.

Wives of Tomorrow

—FRANCES M'DONALD—

THE HERO HESITATES.

DEAR Frances McDonald: Please help me to figure out my man. He's 30. I am 25. We met two years ago. We were both engaged, but broke them. At first he seemed crazy about me. Then, he started to lie to me about where he went and later confessed he had gone out with the "first girl." Then I was taken seriously ill, and while I was in the hospital he went out more and more often with the "first girl," one week calling to see me only one evening. While I was undergoing a slow recovery and very low in spirits, the fellow I had been engaged to called and asked me to let him help me to regain my strength. He began coming again, but I always kept Sundays and holidays for the man I love. Often I wouldn't see him more than two nights a week; the rest of the time I spent with the "first boy." But I loved him through it all. However, after a year and a half my pride got the best of me, and I obtained employment in the West for three months to try to forget him. In ten days he was out there, telling me he loved only me and talking of nothing but an early marriage. I received two or three letters daily talking about marriage at the earliest possible date after my return home. He broke with the "first girl" and insisted that I break with the "first boy," which I did. The other girl has since married. I told all my friends about the marriage, the date was set, part of my trousseau bought and numerous hope chest gifts received. But no engagement ring or marriage talk came from the boy friend. Finally, I asked him about it, and he said he thought marriage is too big a risk to jump into—that he doesn't want to get married for two years or more. And he can't understand why I should feel badly!

He is well able financially to marry. He says if I loved him I'd wait forever. Which one of us has brains but thinks not? Or do we both have that failing? Am I jilted? Does he care for me? Or is he incapable of caring for any one but himself? What should I do? Open the door and hand him his hat or wait "two years or more?" I can go away again for several months. Should I?

PERPLEXED.

Should you? And how! But not as a mere gesture this time. Go away and stay away and marry some one with a little stamina, judgment and self-respect. A man 30 years of age ought to know what he is doing. Had he ceased to care, that would be something beyond control, but to coolly decide that the wedding should await his pleasure and—crowning audacity—that you should wait forever if necessary, places him in a class by himself.

There are on earth a few men worth waiting for. One here and there. But, strangely, they are never the ones who expect any one to wait. It is some such feeble-wit as your enterprising Apollo who says in effect, "The woman who gets me gets what the gods have given to few"—or some similar refrain. Gently lead this 30-year-old adult with the mind of a 5-year-old child to the door, pat him on the head and tell him to run along and roll his hoop with the other little boys. And if he ever comes back—and they always do—for the love of heaven chase him off the steps. How any intelligent woman could spend an hour with a man of such caliber is beyond comprehension. Vanilla ice cream for brains, yet he dictates terms. How could you contemplate marriage with such a type? Go West, young woman, go West. And this time stay there!

YOUR NAME — WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, Ph.D.

THE family name "Herring" is found with a great variety of spellings in the earliest English records. In the majority of cases it is derived from "Hering," an old Teutonic personal name meaning "the son of Heri." The personal name "Heri" (also spelled "Here") means "the army." A common Old English variation of this personal name is "Herine," which may be translated "the warrior." In some cases there is evidence that the family name "Herring" was first given as a nickname to persons who sold herrings. In this connection it is interesting that the fish called the herring derives its name from the same source as the above-mentioned personal name "Heri," meaning "the army." That variety of fish was found in such numbers that it was said to move in armies. In other words, it was in reality called "the army fish." Some of the many entries in the Hundred Rolls (1273) are John Hareng, Alan Haring, Robert Hering and Robert Herin. An English document of the year 1307 bears the name of Reymund Hervying. Variations of this family name have always been frequent in Germany, some of the most common being "Hering," "Harink," "Haering" and "Hoering."

The family name "Prevost" is an old form of the Modern French "Prevot." "Prevot" is derived from the Latin "praepositus," which means "he who is placed before." It was used to designate a man placed in a prominent position, such as the leader of an army or the chairman of a council. The English noun "provost" is from the same source.

Watch this column every day. Your name will appear here.

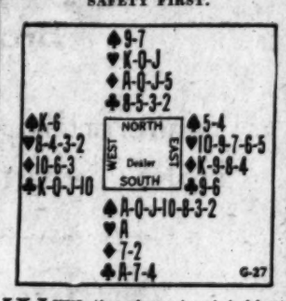
WORK ON BRIDGE

SAFETY FIRST.



WITH the above hand held at Auction Bridge, South probably would bid one Spade and obtain the contract; if he preferred to preempt he would bid three Spades.

At Contract Bridge three Spades should be bid by South and whether North should raise to five or only four hardly would be a question. With his great strength in Hearts and Diamonds, a slam-suggesting five would be sound; the North hand probably will furnish enough tricks to make five-odd, and may give enough assistance to produce a slam.

If North should bid five Spades it is doubtful whether South would be venturesome enough to bid six. His hand (about a minimum three bid) has two losers in Diamonds, two in Clubs, and a possible loser in Spades; therefore, although North's slam-suggestion shows three probable tricks, a pass is the conservative declaration for South.

The hand was played at five Spades. West's opening lead was the King of Clubs, which was won by South's Ace. South then led a Diamond and took the Diamond finesse with the hope that it would win and enable him to lead a Spade from North giving South a chance to finesse Spades; but the Diamond finesse lost and two Club tricks immediately were taken in by the adversaries. As the King of trumps also won, Declarer went down two tricks.

The Correct Play.

Of course, had both finesses won, Declarer would have made thirteen tricks without difficulty, but his bid was for only eleven tricks and he should have made himself practically sure of that number by leading the Ace of Hearts and then, refusing the Diamond finesse, have cashed two good Hearts in dummy. On these Hearts South could have discarded two Clubs and next have tried the Spade finesse with the certainty of making twelve tricks if it succeeded, and eleven tricks (his contract) if it failed.

LAMB PATTIES FOR DINNER.

Lamb Patties, Broiled
Creamed Potatoes
Buttered Green Beans
Bread Plum Jelly
Apricot Salad
Rhubarb Pudding Coffee

Lamb Patties.
(Serving six.)

1½ pounds ground lamb shoulder
1 teaspoon chopped onions
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon paprika
¼ teaspoon celery salt
6 strips bacon

Mix lamb anad seasonings. Shape into cakes 2-3-inch thick. Fasten bacon around each cake and hold in place with toothpicks. Broil 20 minutes and turn to allow even cooking.

Apricot Salad.

1 package orange gelatin mixture
1 cup boiling water
½ cup apricot juice
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 cup canned apricots
½ cup diced celery
¼ teaspoon salt

Pour water over gelatin and stir until dissolved. Cool and add rest of the ingredients. Mix well. Pour to thickness of 1½ inches in shallow pan. Set in cold place to stiffen. Unmold and cut in squares. Serve on lettuce and surround with creamy dressing.

Creamy Dressing.

3 egg yolks
3 tablespoons flour
4 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon dry mustard
¼ teaspoon paprika
½ cup vinegar
½ cup water
3 tablespoons sour cream

Beat yolks and add dry ingredients. Add vinegar and water. Cook in double boiler until creamy. Stir frequently. Add cream, beat and chill.

Rhubarb Pudding.

4 cups diced rhubarb
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1½ cups flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ cup sugar
1 egg
¼ cup milk
3 tablespoons butter, melted
1 teaspoon vanilla

Mix rhubarb and cup of sugar and pour into bottom of buttered baking dish. Mix rest of ingredients and beat two minutes. Pour over rhubarb. Bake 25 minutes in moderate oven. Turn upside down. Serve warm or cold.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"ARIES."

IF March 26 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:30 a. m. to 11 a. m., from 1 p. m. to 3 p. m., and from 7 p. m. to 9:15 p. m. The danger hours are from 11:30 a. m. to 12:45 p. m. and from 5:10 p. m. to 6:45 p. m.

The astrological indications of March 26 presage a rather uneventful day, although there might be some ties formed which, in time, will inure to your benefit. Risk and speculation should be avoided, and routine work only should be attempted.

A child born on this March 26 will be shrewd, and every effort should be made to prevent this gift being converted into cunning. It will, at times, be stubborn, and will only yield with a bad grace. It will be fond of reading and travel, and apt to make friends.

You, if born on March 26, have a good deal of personal magnetism, and in a crowd, you are invariably the leader, not because you desire it, but because of that indefinable characteristic that commands respect. With it all, however, you are not bumptious or overbearing, and your disposition is extremely affable and amiable. You are a convincing talker, firm yet gentle. You possess very strong convictions and always endeavor to persuade others to share your belief by a mannerism that is both seductive and ingratiating.

Well equipped as you are to accept big responsibilities, you are fully alive to the importance of details, and any task entrusted to your care is always well and faithfully done. In setting out a proposition, you have an almost uncanny gift for scenting others' objections, and you adroitly anticipate them. You are a little too close in money matters, and make it rather a virtue to induce others to give rather than give yourself.

Your head is well balanced, and you have complete control over the emotional side of your character. You are not naturally very affectionate, but once you really love—and your love will be based on companionship rather than on sexualism—you will "stay put," and not wander outside the home circle.

The New Jelleff's

Behind the Screens

—With NELSON B. BELL—

THE world of amusement these last few weeks has been going quietly and unostentatiously about the business of preparing for the observance of what formerly was designated "N. V. A. Week" throughout these United States—the one period of the year during which the player who has contributed to every worthy charity and every benefit he has been called upon to support calls upon the public to support his. The procedure this year will be materially altered from the practices of past seasons.

If present plans culminate sucessfully—and there is no reason to mistrust that they will fail—Easter week this year will witness one of the most attractive series of amusement bargains on the 1931 calendar. From coast to coast, in every city and every town, this spring holiday week will be known as "Players' and Patrons' Jubilee Week."

"Players' and Patrons' Jubilee Week," April 4 to 10, is not to be misconstrued as the gesture of any one circuit or individual group. It is the combined enterprise of all the motion picture and vaudeville theaters in America. Never before have all amusement interests and factors achieved such unanimity in the promotion of a single week of such superlative entertainments.

A definite idea of the far-reaching importance of this great celebration is to be found in its sponsorship. The executive committee is made up of Sam Katz, president of Publix Theaters; Hiram S. Brown, president of Radio-Keith-Orpheum; Will H. Hays, president of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc.; Harley L. Clarke, president, Fox Theaters; Nicholas Schenck, president, Loew Theaters, and Harry M. Warner, president of Warner Bros.

In Washington all the theaters, both in the downtown, first-run sector and in the neighborhoods, will cooperate in the staging of this festive week. All of the theaters will—be appropriately decorated, and cash will present special attractions to augment its customary program features.

Organization meetings already have been held by the local managers and publicity men—the former under the leadership of A. Julian Brylawski, the latter under the chairmanship of Frank La Palce, of the Warner Bros. forces.

Nothing comes to the attention of the amusement seeker from season to season is worthy of greater support, either from the standpoint of deserving cause or value received.

Telegraphic confirmation was received yesterday afternoon of the appointment of Hardie Meakin to the management of the RKO-Keith Theater in this city, effective tomorrow. In addition to the managerial duties, Mr. Meakin also will assume complete charge of the advertising and publicity for the Fifteenth street house.

Mr. Meakin has long been a resident of Washington, having come to the Capital first as a member of the old Poli Stock Company, in 1911. He subsequently engaged in newspaper work and for many years was local correspondent for Variety. Sime Silverman's handbook of the profession, for which he scored many scoops in reporting news stories affecting the theater from Capitol Hill. During the term of Jack Stebbins as managing director of the Fox Theater, Mr. Meakin was appointed to the post of publicity director, from which he subsequently graduated to the managing directorship. He severed his connection with the Fox exactly one week ago tonight preparatory to effecting the new affiliation, to which he is now followed by the congratulations and best wishes of a host of friends.

C. Harry Schreiber, whom Mr. Meakin succeeds at RKO-Keith's, is transferred to a new assignment, under the Radio-Keith-Orpheum banner, in which many friends also wish him every success.

Having earlier in the day received its members in his offices in the Senate Office Building, Vice President Curtis, Mr. and Mrs. Gann and party last night occupied the flag-draped presidential box at the Fox Theater to hear the United States Indian Band, featured in the Fanchon and Marco stage revue presented in conjunction with the Fox picturisation of the Earl Derr Biggers story, "Charlie Chan Carries On."

At 9 o'clock, with full house lights on and the capacity audience standing, the house orchestra, under the conductorship of Leon Brusiloff, and the Indian band joined forces in the rendition of the "Star-Spangled Banner" in honor of the distinguished guest.

The United States Indian Band, by the way, has been designated one of the United States' official bands at the Colonial Exposition in Paris this summer by C Bascom Slemp, special U. S. Commissioner and former secretary to President Coolidge. The band sails from New York on April 15, upon the conclusion of its Fanchon and Marco tour.

Before we forget it, what with all that's going on, next week's attractions in the downtown area will be as follows: Palace, Marion Davies in "It's a Wise Child" and Ted Lewis and his band heading the stage show; Fox, Richard Arlen and Fay Wray in "The Conquering Horde" and Fanchon and Marco revue; Earle, Dorothy Mackaill in "Kept Husbands," with Grace Hayes and Neville Fleeson heading the vaudeville; Rialto, June Collyer and Warner Oland in "The Drugs of Jeopardy;" R-K-O-Keith's, Edward Everett Horton, Laura La Plante, Esther Ralston and Patsy Ruth Miller in "Lonely Wives;" Columbia, Adolph Menjou and Lella Hyams in "Men Call It Love;" Metropolitan, Bela Lugosi, Helen Chandler and David Manners in "Dracula."

While you are ordering all those garden seeds, you might as well have that extra ton of coal put in, too!

MASONS WILL HOLD VIRGINIA NIGHT HERE

Many Nearby Lodges to Join in Celebration; Leaders to Speak.

Members of St. John's Lodge, No. 11, F. A. A. M., will celebrate Virginia night at their meeting at the new Masonic Temple tomorrow night, to which various lodges from nearby Virginia have been invited, including many of the high officials of Virginia Masonry.

Included among the list of speakers are Hugh Reid, member of the Virginia State Legislature and a past master of Cherrydale Lodge; Harry K. Green, deputy grand master of Virginia, and Charles H. Callahan, past grand master of Masons in Virginia.

Tribute to George Washington as one of this country's first outstanding Masons will be paid by the several speakers at the meeting. Mr. Callahan is an authority on Virginia Masonry and is the author of a book on "Washington, the Man and the Mason," as well as several other shorter articles on allied subjects.

Those in charge of the program tomorrow night are headed by Stuart M. Angelo as chairman of the entertainment committee, assisted by Charles E. Babcock, Wallace B. Fitzgerald, William E. Goodrich and Charles E. Boldin. The committee on refreshments is hedaed by John Rizzo as chairman, aided by Herbert D. Ormsby and Archie E. Cole.

Committee Will Plan For World Conference

A meeting of the local committee for the reception and entertainment of delegates to the world conference on work for the blind will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the Hamilton Hotel. Charles M. Sprague, manager of the conference, will come from New York to attend.

President Hoover issued invitations a year ago to 50 foreign countries, asking them to send delegates to the world conference, which will open in New York in April. More than 100 of the delegates will visit Washington April 21 and 22.

CHEMISTRY SOCIETY HONORS DR. HUDSON

Expert in Health Service Gets Award on Paper Dealing With Sugars.

Dr. Claude Silbert Hudson, professor of chemistry at the National Institute of Health of the Public Health Service since 1928, and nationally prominent in his profession, has been selected by the Chemical Society of Washington for award of its Hillebrand prize.

The honor, to be made at a dinner tonight at the Cosmos Club, is given annually for the most meritorious contribution to chemical science presented in papers read before the society. His winning paper dealt with the ring structure of sugars, a study in which he has been engaged for 20 years. He is credited with discovery of 5 of the 50-odd varieties of sugar known to chemistry, and has found simpler ways of producing various other kinds.

Dr. Hudson was awarded the Willard Gibbs gold medal for 1929 by the American Chemical Society for his researches in sugar chemistry, and in 1916 won its Nichols medal for exceptional work.

A native of Atlanta, Ga., where he was born in 1881, he received from Princeton University the degree of bachelor of science in 1901, the master of science degree in 1902, and the doctor of philosophy degree in 1907. He was research assistant in physical chemistry at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, 1903-04; instructor in physics, Princeton University, 1904-05; instructor of physics, University of Illinois, 1905-07; assistant physicist, U. S. Geological Survey, 1907-08; assistant chemist, and later chief of carbohydrate laboratory, Department of Agriculture, 1908-19.

After commercial work, he was chemist at the Bureau of Standards from 1923 to 1928, when he assumed his present position. He resides at 3016 Tilden street northwest.

INQUEST TO BE HELD IN WESSON'S DEATH

Body of Young Man Slain in Taxi Shooting Turned Over to Parents.

A coroner's jury this morning will hold an inquest into the death yesterday of Charles Macon Wesson 3d, 23-year-old son of Lieut. Col. Wesson, former Military Attache to the American Embassy in London. His mad drive through the town in a taxi two months ago was checked by a policeman's bullet.

Detective F. A. Mahaney, who reported he fired in self-defense, was being held at the Eighth Precinct pending the jury's finding.

Mahaney was one of a trio of policemen who gave chase when young Wesson forced a cab driver to drive him through the city, as he fired his pistol at random.

Deputy Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald conducted an autopsy on Wesson's body at the District Morgue yesterday. The body afterward was turned over to his parents. Funeral arrangements had not been completed last night.

Wesson died yesterday at Walter Reed Hospital from blood poisoning, resulting from the bullet wound.

According to the police version, Wesson on the night of January 16 hired a cab at Twentieth street and Florida avenue, driving to the Washington-Hoover Airport, where he was employed.

Returning to town, he is alleged to have fired two shots from a pistol through the windshield of the taxi, forcing the driver to drive through traffic lights in a winding course to Temple Heights at Connecticut and Florida avenues northwest.

An Eighth Precinct police car was summoned to the scene.

Mahaney reported that he was forced to shoot when Wesson started toward him with his pistol upraised in his hand.

He is survived by his widow, who formerly was Miss Catherine Lawrence, of Philadelphia; his father and two sisters. Wesson was married to Miss Lawrence after an elopement to Rockville last July.

MORE HIGH SCHOOL TEACHERS SOUGHT

Union Presents Petition for Added Help, Claiming Forces Overworked.

Urgent need for more senior high school teachers was brought to the attention of school officials yesterday by the Teachers Union.

The union presented its plea in the form of a petition which was supplemented with a lengthy list of extra duties that teachers perform in the interest of students and student activities.

The petition will be presented to the Board of Education at its next meeting.

Particular request is made by the teachers that an item be placed in the next school budget for additional high school teachers. The finance committee of the board is now drawing up the school budget.

The petition asserted that the work of senior high school teachers is yearly becoming heavier, with the result that their efficiency is being impaired. Statistics on teacher loads are unfair, the petition stated, because no mention is given of the tremendous amount of nonteaching tasks that instructors perform. Stress is placed on the brevity of a teaching day in Washington in comparison to other cities.

The teacher load statistics are based only on formal class instruction and omit study-hall assignments, section periods and various other lines of work, the petition claimed. In some instances it is claimed that a teacher is shown to teach but three actual classes during a day, but no mention is made that the same teacher spends the rest of her time in such activities as program making, vocational guidance, school publication and dramatics direction.

Assistant Superintendent of Schools Stephen E. Kramer is now completing a survey which is designed to show just how much tim. teachers give to extra curricula duties.

Bicentennial Chief To Be Named Later

Appointment of Director Awaits Dr. Marvin's Return to City.

Appointment of an executive director for the District of Columbia Bicentennial Commission probably will not be made until the latter part of next week, or the first part of the following week.

This was indicated yesterday when it became known that Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin, chairman of the commission and president of George Washington University, without whom the appointment can not be made, will not return to this city until the early part of April. He is now traveling in Mexico.

Belief earlier had been expressed by members of the commission's executive committee that Dr. Marvin would return this week.

The executive committee recently announced that three men of national and local prominence were being given major consideration for the position of executive director.

Raskob Car Crash Suit Is Dismissed

Litigation Is Settled Out of Court by Insurance in $50,000 Claim.

At the request of counsel for David R. Freeling, a Capitol policeman, a suit for $50,000 against John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, was dismissed in the District Supreme Court. It was indicated that an insurance company had settled the case out of court.

Freeling claimed that he was injured when a new automobile he was driving was struck by a car driven by Raskob's chauffeur on Dead Man's Hill, in Maryland, when one of the Raskob children was being taken back to school after a week-end at the Raskob estate in Maryland.

The summons in the suit was served on Mr. Raskob at the meeting of the Democratic party leaders held here March 5. Attorneys Saul G. and William R. Lichtenberg represented Freeling in the action.

Meeting of Veterans Called for Dance Plans

A special meeting of Rea Chapter, Disabled American Veterans of the World War, has been called by Commander Logan J. Purcell to discuss plans for the post-Lenten entertainment and dance at the Willard Hotel on April 4. The meeting of the post tomorrow night will be held at the Occidental Hotel at 8 o'clock.

One of the primary objects of the meeting will be to appoint definite lists of committees for the entertainment. The program is planned for the purpose of raising funds to pay for the D. A. V. pillar in the new nonsectarian memorial chapel which is being erected at Walter Reed Hospital by the Gray Ladies.

Dr. Budlong to Preach At Epiphany Church

The Rev. Dr. Frederick G. Budlong, rector of Christ Church, Greenwich, Conn., will conduct the special Lenten noonday services at Epiphany Church for the rest of the week.

The service starts at noon and lasts half an hour. Services are also held each afternoon at 4:45 o'clock, with guest preachers this afternoon and tomorrow.

ARBORETUM SITES' FUND HELD ILLEGAL

Maximum Limit for Price of Five Parcels as Ruled Are Exceeded.

A halt came yesterday in plans of progress for the National Arboretum when the Department of Agriculture was informed by Comptroller General McCarl that under the law it could not pay out the amounts set for five parcels of land already condemned under court procedure for the site.

The Comptroller General ruled that the $138,459.86 purchase price of the five parcels could not be met under the law because it exceeded a maximum fund limit, which is described as a figure totaling the assessed valuation of the land plus a 25 per cent increase. This assessed valuation, plus 25 per cent, amounted to $84,513.75, it was made public.

The only solution, according to the official, is for Congress to enact legislation permitting payment of the full amount set by the condemnation jury for the five parcels, which comprise about 78 acres of land, located on or near Hickey Hill, roughly described as a plot in the Northeast section north of Benning road and east of Bladensburg road, by Kingmans Lake.

"The cost to the United States of any of the land may not be in excess of the assessed value, plus 25 per cent, whether the land be acquired by private purchase or by condemnation proceedings, and the aggregate commitments for all such acquisitions must not exceed $300,000," the Comptroller General said.

Officer Gives Pint Of Blood to Gingell

One Man Out of 11 Chosen for Transfusion After Hospital Tests.

Officer Robert Howes, of Montgomery County Police Headquarters at Rockville, yesterday gave nearly a pint of his blood to J. Stanley Gingell, former Montgomery County deputy sheriff, who is in a critical condition at Emergency Hospital. Gingell was burned when a coal-oil tank exploded two weeks ago at Poolesville, Md.

Seven policemen and four civilian friends had offered to submit to a transfusion and tests of their blood showed that Howes' most nearly approximated that of Gingell. Officer Howes and his wife, who is secretary to State's Attorney Stedman Prescott, went to the hospital yesterday while the policeman donated his blood. The policeman was up and about again last night, despite loss of the blood.

Gingell was burned when Lawrence Clagett, former county policeman, poured coal oil from a 5-gallon can into the dying flames of a coal stove and the coal oil exploded, fatally injuring Clagett, who had been married but six weeks.

Capital High Court Will Recess April 2

Vacation of Week Is Set So New Routine Procedure Can Be Installed.

The District Supreme Court justices yesterday cleared their decks for active installation of the new routine for handling their work when they decreed that all divisions of the court will be in recess from April 2 to April 9, inclusive.

The new procedure, modeled after the system now in vogue in Cleveland, is expected to speed up the handling of the myriad of cases that come before the court. It is scheduled to go into operation here April 11 and the vacation was ordered so that the system now used could be scrapped and the new one installed.

The only exception to the recess is that on April 7 Criminal Court No. 1 will be in session to qualify jurors.

Alleged Remarks Form Basis of $50,000 Suits

Two slander suits, each of them seeking $50,000, were filed against the Prudential Life Insurance Co. and its Washington branch manager, J. Howard Brine, yesterday by two former employes of the company, Edwin A. Gordon, 5201 Wisconsin avenue northwest, and Boussen S. Davison, 3638 Van Ness street northwest.

The suits allege that the branch manager made defamatory remarks about the two, who were formerly employed as salesmen. These remarks, they said, have impaired their chances for a successful venture into the insurance business.

WHY you honestly can't afford TO BUY ANY OTHER automatic refrigerator but a GAS REFRIGERATOR

SUPPOSE a salesman were to come to your door and say "I have a new and entirely different kind of refrigerator. It is automatic, but has a tiny gas flame in place of machinery. It can't ever make a sound because it has nothing to make sound. And instead of the 10 or 15 cents a day you now spend for ice, this refrigerator will cost you only 6 cents a day to use."

Wouldn't you be interested? Could you buy any other refrigerator and be fair to yourself?

Electrolux, the Gas Refrigerator, is as different from mechanical refrigerators as mechanical refrigerators are from the old-fashioned icebox. A tiny gas flame and a trickle of water circulate the refrigerant that makes the cold and freezes ice cubes. The refrigerant is hermetically sealed in rigid steel, and will never need renewal. The gas is turned off by an unfailing automatic shutoff should the little flame ever go out. The chilling action is continuous—doesn't alternately stop and start, but keeps a constant, steady cold.

No Finance Charges, 2 Years to Pay

If you buy your Electrolux before May 1st, even with as small a down payment as $5, you have 2 years in which to pay, WITHOUT ANY FINANCE CHARGES AT ALL. That means you can buy an Electrolux for as little as $2.50 a week. The saving on ice alone will cover a substantial part of the payments.

Free Lifetime Service

With your Electrolux goes free lifetime service. Service you can depend upon, because we've sold so many of these refrigerators that we have a special department to install and adjust them. Our service men are always at your call, although there's seldom any need of them.

The Gas Refrigerator gives you all these advantages, yet sells at reasonable prices. They range from $235 to $775. There are ten household models to choose from, ranging in size from 3 cu. ft. to 20 cu. ft. capacity—one for every kitchen.

This unusual automatic refrigerator is on display at all our showrooms. If you can't come in, write or phone us, and complete information will be mailed to you. Take advantage of the remarkably low terms before May 1, and get a $3 hydrator free, as well.

Hostess Model (illustrated) Price $270, installed, ideal for families of 2 to 6 people. Makes 45 large ice cubes. One of the ten beautiful models.

A tiny gas flame takes the place of all moving parts.

J. C. C. Winner Over St. John's, 22-21, in 130-Lb. Game.

Capital Awning Beats Mount Vernon in Unlmiited Class.

LAST NIGHT'S RESULTS.

130-POUND CLASS—Jewish Community Center, 22; St. John's Victors, 21 (quarter-final round).

100-POUND CLASS FINALS—Boys Club Optimists, 41; Stuarts, 20.

UNLIMITED CLASS—Capital Awning Aces, 46; Mount Vernon, 26 (quarter-final round).

THE sixth Washington Post's A. A. U. Basket Ball tournament developed its first champion last night, when the Boys Club Optimists came out of the court conflict at Tech High Gym a 41-20 victor over the Stuarts in the final round of the 100-pound division. The two Lilliputian teams put up a game that was of the championship vintage from start to end, passing, dribbling and shooting in the fashion of veterans.

Vieing with this game in point of interest, and surpassing it in point of close play, was the match in which the Jewish Community Center 130-pound team emerged a 22-21 winner over the St. John's Victors. The two teams hung together throughout the last half, with rarely more than two points serving as the differentiating gap.

The Capital Awning Aces toned down their attack a mite last night but nevertheless had little trouble in defeating the Mount Vernon Five, former Sunday School champions, 46-26, to go into the semifinal round of the unlimited class.

Wallace Team Play Beats Montrose.

The Montrose Athletic Club, the name of the winning team in the unlimited section of 1930's tournament, and still boasting of several of the stars of that team, went down to defeat in the 145-pound section quarter-finals last night before the Wallace Memorial Five, 34 to 30, in a game which was regarded by many as an upset.

The work of Anthony Latona and Roy Yowell, bulwarks of Western High's team this year, went by the boards before the concentrated drive of the churchmen, and the individual play of Russell Livermore, center, whose 17 points gave him high scoring honors.

Livermore remained the bright figure in the victory of his team. He evened the score at 9 to 9 with a good shot after the Montrose outfit had held the advantage throughout the first ten minutes of the game, and he led the attack that promoted the score to 23 to 19 in his team's favor at the half.

Montrose battled gamely throughout the second half, constantly threatening, but never going ahead. With two minutes to go, the score stood 32 to 30 in favor of Wallace Memorial, to which total Livermore added another brace of points by way of a pot shot, and then combined with the rest of the team to kep the Montrose stars scoreless.

Tilden Match Accepted by Richards

Curley $25,000 Offer to Bring Old Tennis Foes Together.

First of Series of Matches Slated for Polo Grounds.

CHICAGO, March 25 (A.P.).—William T. Tilden 2d, and Vincent Richards, once friendly musketeers in the world of tennis, but now at odds with each other, finally have been brought together for a professional championship struggle against each other on the courts.

Promoter Jack Curley, of New York, today signed the two temperamental stars to clash in a series of matches for the "world's professional championship." Months of negotiation and the lure of large purses landed the signatures on the contract, calling for a series on the basis of the best five out of nine matches, Promoter Curley said.

Tilden will receive $25,000, with percentage privileges, while Richards will receive a flat guarantee of $25,000 for the matches, Promoter Curley said.

Curley Is Proud Of Promotion.

Under tentative arrangements the first match will be staged in New York, probably at the Polo Grounds about May 25, with others in cities between Chicago and New York.

"This isn't ballyhoo," Promoter Curley said, "but the matches should be exciting and interesting. So bitter are Tilden and Richards that I'll bet they won't even shake hands in customary fashion when they meet in their matches and each will play his hardest to give the other a sound thrashing. This is one promotion that I feel proud of—a promotion that many told me was impossible because of the enmity between the two. I feel confident of record attendances at the matches."

Richards Jealous of Kozeluh Defeats.

Excepting the large purses, the fact that "Big Bill" conquered Karl Kozeluh in something like e'even out of thirteen matches to claim the profession tennis championship of the world was the big factor in bringing Richards and Tilden together. Richards protested on the grounds that he, too, owned victories over Kozeluh.

Up to five or six years ago Tilden and Richards were close friends off and on the tennis courts. Then something happened and they have refused to play or speak to each other.

R. F. & P. Five Routs Leesburg, 48 to 22

Special to The Washington Post.

Leesburg, Va., March 25.—The Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac Basket Ball Team tonight staged a second-half rally to triumph over the Leesburg Independents, 48 to 22, before a capacity crowd at the Leesburg High School.

The teams were tied at 14 to 14 at the end of the first half. With the start of the second half the entire R., F. and P. Team found the hoop with consistency and drew away rapidly to increase its lead as the game progressed. Robey's seven field goals kept Leesburg in the running.

The Berwyn Dixie Pigs will participate in the Capital City League this year.

Gov. Long Gives Colonelcies to Tribe's Owners

NEW ORLEANS, March 25 (A.P.).—Dr. Huey P. Long, Governor of Louisiana and its senator-elect, went beyond the realm of State craft today and became a stockholder in the Cleveland Club, of the American League.

He disclosed he had asquired stock in the club after a conference with the team's management earlier in the day, whereby he was instrumental in a decision for the Indians to continue their spring training here.

The governor described his ownership of stock as the realization of a life-time ambition to crash into big league baseball.

He offered to buy the stock with a $500 bill which he displayed at a dinner tendered two of the Cleveland Club owners, but they gave him a share gratis. Whereupon, the governor made the two Clevelanders—Alva Bradley and John Sherwin—colonels on his staff.

Westbrook Pegler Says

Are Deaf to Players' Plaints

NEW YORK, March 25.—The baseball magnates have been twisting themselves far out of shape and twisting the truth in some curious figures, too, in their efforts to explain how it was that they decided to disenliven the lively baseball which was not a lively baseball anyway, but will not be lively any more. Their explanation sounds somewhat like the defense of the safe cracker who insists that he did not crack the safe, but, in any case, has decided not to do so any more.

For ten years the magnates denied that the baseball was any more frisky than it had been in the year when Home Run Baker led the major leagues in the matter of home runs with a dozen or so. But during the recent winter the magnates decided that, although the baseball wasn't lively, they would subdue it anyway by changing the stitches; and the National League, by adopting a thicker cover. Then, as the training season began, they explained that although they had taken these steps with a definite sedative purpose, the ball would still be the same old ball.

This seems all mixed up.

All the testimony of the athletes who have been using the ball during the last ten years and the managers who saw the old strategy of baseball undone by home runs insist that the ball was suddenly changed in 1921. The hitting records give similar evidence, and the only persons who have insisted all along that the ball was never altered are the manufacturers and the magnates.

It seems impossible to straighten the matter out; but if the new crop of baseballs is to be less jumpy than those of the last ten years, that ought to be a good thing for baseball.

If the football authorities were to do something to the game which would make touchdowns as common as home runs have become in baseball, the public interest might be stimulated for a time and the wizard mentors in charge of certain of the great scoring machines would enjoy a fine business intestimonials, autographed sporting gods and literary by-products. But after a while the public would begin to complain of cheap touchdowns, and it would be necessary to switch back to the old system to revive interest and confidence. The home run in baseball corresponds to the touchdown in football, and the wonder of the situation is that the patrons maintained their enthusiasm as long as they did.

In a certain sense, the magnates were guilty of a wrong when they adopted the lively ball, which was never a lively ball, as I understand it, although it will not be lively any more in spite of the fact that it will be just as lively as ever. The home run was an emotional event for the customers, who regarded it as an occasion for a special kind of yelling and arm-waving. The stimulation of the baseball ten years ago and the consequent multiplicity of home runs therefore have represented a deliberate exploitation of the customer's tenderest and sincerest feelings. If the customers had been told that their emotions were being deliberately toyed with they would have discounted the home runs, and although they have suspected that they were being imposed upon they have been hoping with a faith, almost religious in character, that it wasn't so.

Possibly it is because the magnates understand this that they have given out these ambiguous explanations of the change in the baseball which is to leave it just as it was, but at the same time abate its sprightliness without, however, reducing its elasticity and range.

Ball Is the Same, Only Different

As I understand it now, and I am sure I don't, Tweedle-dum and Tweedle-dee are entirely different, but alike and interchangeable if at all.

ROOKIE HERO AS YANKS WIN, 8-3

Hoag Makes 3 Hits and Star Catch in Defeat of Phils.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 25 (A.P.).—Hitting when hits spelled runs, the New York Yankees snapped out of their slump today to defeat the Philadelphia National League Club, 8 to 3.

Led by Tony Lazzeri, who got a home run, and Myril Hoag, the $75,000 San Francisco rookie, the Yanks pounded the pitching of Johnny Milligan and Ben Shields for eleven hits. Hoag collected three hits in four times at bat and made a sensational leaping catch of Bartell's drive against the left-field fence in the fourth. Babe Ruth failed to get a hit.

CHURCH LEAGUE MEETS.

The Georgetown Church Baseball League will hold a reorganizing meeting Saturday night at 7:30 o'clock at Peck Memorial Chapel.

It is expected that the West Washington Baptists, the Calvary Drakes, the Eldbrooke M. E., the Vermont Avenue Christian and the First Baptists will again be represented in the league. Franchises, however, are extended to any church or Bible class ball team.

U. S. GOLFERS REELECT SLATE

Bryant Again Heads Group; Tourney Set for June 1-2.

THE annual meeting of the Interdepartmental Golf League, held yesterday afternoon in the Treasury Department, resulted in the reelection of last year's officers, as follows: Roswell A. Bryant, Patent Office, president; M. A. Shipley, State Department, vice president; Ralph Shepard, Treasury, secretary, and John T. Harris, War, treasurer.

It was decided to hold the annual tournament on Monday and Tuesday, June 1 and 2, with the probability that the event will be staged on the course of the Indian Spring Club, although several other clubs offered their courses to the organization. Homer S. Pope was named as chairman of the subcommittee on selection of course and will report to the meeting of the executive committee on hte 2d of next month. John T. Harris was appointed chairman of hte prize cmomittee, and the details of the tournament were placed in the hands of R. R. Shay as the head of the golf committee.

200 Contestants in Tourney Seen.

The members of the board of governors present announced unusual interest in the forthcoming tournament, and it was decided to limit the entry list to 200 contestants. Each department or bureau will be restricted to three teams in Classes A, B and C, based on a handicap rating. Entries must be filed not later than the 20th day of May. Six cups will be offered for team play and in addition there will be eighteen individual prizes.

Those present yesterday included L. A. Reynoldson, Agriculture; R. H. Herrell, General Accounting Office; D. P. Swope, Interior; R. R. Shay, Interstate Commerce, L. T. Harrison, Navy; R. A. Bryant, Patent Office; J. H. Vollings, Postoffice; J. H. Eiseman, Standards; George W. McCarter, Treasury; William F. Doyle, War, and E. W. Cleary, Federal Trade Commission.

SAKS SEEK FOE.

The Saks Clothiers are looking for a game tonight with a strong unlimited foe, in order to keep in shape for The Post's A. A. U. tournament, in which they are favored to capture the 145-pound laurels. Call Manager Dick Mothershead, at District 3050.

PLAY FOR TENNIS SUPREMACY

Vincent Richards (left) and Bill Tilden, former Davis Cup partners, whose personal differences have prevented recent meetings on the court, will meet as professionals in a five-match series under the promotion of Jack Curley.

Experts Lean Toward A's Again

Macks Seen as 1931 Wniners Despite 2-Man Box Staff.

Nats Believed to Be Only Club Capable of Halting Champs.

(This is second of two stories reviewing major league baseball prospects based on training camp observations.)

By GAYLE TALBOT, Jr.

NEW YORK, March 25 (A.P.).—For the simple reason that no club in the American League appears to have strengthened sufficiently to turn them back, Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics will enter the forthcoming derby generally favored to make it three straight.

Lame and halt though their infield may be, and uncertain their pitching support for Grove and Earnshaw, the consensus seems to be that the champions have enough left to tame the opposition. Whether, after they have done that, they will be able to vanquish the National League's color bearer for the third time is an entirely different question.

Only one team, strangely enough, has a definite idea it will supplant the Mackmen in the throne room. The Washington Club, which was setting the pace last season as late as July 4, only to fall apart in the stretch, believes it is due to crash through again. If either the Cleveland Indians or the Yankees, the other top fighters last season, have the pennant bee, the fact is being carefully concealed.

McCarthy Ventures No Prediction.

Roger Peckinpaugh, the Indian pilot, has ventured that his boys will be "right up there," but Joe McCarthy, the new foreman of Ruth, Gehrig & Co., will not go even that far. He has been too worried about his mound staff, if any, to give much thought to the campaign proper.

Detroit, under Bucky Harris, has chosen to sound an optimistic note. Harris believes he has uncovered some fine new talent. Chicago, St. Louis and Boston are more or less resigned to their fate, about in that order. They are doing what they can toward building for the future.

The A's, notwithstanding the rumors and requiems that have swirled about their crowned heads this spring, likely will face the barrier next month with the same line-up that has been good enough to trim the baseball world for two years. The mighty Al Simmons has not yet signed, but the boys say he will come to terms pronto when he meets Mack in Philadelphia just before the grind begins. Earnshaw, the other half of Mack's pitching staff, has sent in an optimistic report from Hot Springs. His arm, he declares, is fit as a fiddle, and he will be on the firing line April 14.

Experts See Veterans As Nats' Hope.

Washington's chances, baseball men agree, hinge on the ability of such veterans as Sam Rice, Joe Judge and Heinie Manush to go the route. Walter Johnson has a powerful club, well rounded in every respect, and he thinks it will win.

Cleveland again will depend upon a crack mound staff, headed by the brilliant Wes Ferrell, but the left side of its infield still is open to debate. Vosmik, a rookie from the Three-I, appears to have added punch to the outfield.

Uncertain pitching promises to hold the Yankee sluggers down. In addition, McCarthy has not yet settled on an infield. Tony Lazzeri may be sent back to his old post at second. George Pipgras, possibly the outstanding hurler in the Yank stable, still is recuperating from an operation and will not be ready to go until mid-May.

Likely-Looking Rookies In Nats' Camp.

Bucky Harris has a camp full of fine-looking rookies at Detroit, and the battle for almost every job is a wide-open affair. The Walker brothers, outfielders, have been advertised as the "finds" of the year. Harris' chief reliance, however, will be in a strong mound staff, headed by Hoyt, Whitehill, Uhle and Sorrell.

Baltimore's Errors Pave Way for Defeat; West and Manush Knock Homers

Orioles Held to One Run by Hadley and Burke Until 9th.

Nats Score Two in First; Bolton Gets Special Grooming.

By FRANK H. YOUNG (Post Staff Correspondent).

BILOXI, Miss., March 25.—Although outhit by the Baltimore Orioles here this afternoon, the Nats also were outerrored and, as a result, they turned in an 8 to 4 victory. As the game was played, it was not even as close as the score indicates, for Johnson's men had a big lead after the first and it was not until the ninth, when Bobby Burke let down, that three of the Orioles' four runs were scored. It was the Nats' sixth straight win.

Home runs featured the fracas, Heinie Manush clouting one with two mates on in the second, while one was on the runways when Sammy West poled out another in the seventh. For the Orioles Boyle hit the second ball pitched by Irving Hadley, starting Washington pitcher, for four bases, and Stroner opened the ninth with a circuit clouth.

After the first until the beginning of the ninth the Orioles advanced only one runner past first base; a walk and Linton's single letting Heffner reach third in round two. In the ninth, however, they showed quite a punch. Following Stroner's homer, Heffner tripled and Danning, Boyle and Solters singled, with Sammy West kicking in a two-base error on Danning's safety.

The lead which Boyle's clout gave the Birds did not stand up long, for the Nats counted twice in their half of the first. Hayes and Sam Rice singled, the former scoring and the latter going to third on Stroner's poor relay throw. Rice registered on Manush's helpful out.

Bluege's single, a force-out, Hayes' double, an error by Gill, a walk and Manush's homer gave the Nats four in the second; and they made the score 8 to 1 by adding two more in the seventh on Solters' error, which gave Joe Cronin two bases on a fly and West's four-base drive to the right-field fence.

Hadley granted but four hits in the six innings he toiled, while striking out five and walking one, and Burke, too, was effective until the Orioles' dying effort in the final frame.

Johnson Takes Bolton Under Wing.

Just how seriously Manager Walter Johnson is considering Catcher Cliff Bolton as a possible regular starter this season was indicated at this morning's practice session. In view of this afternoon's game the regulars were not asked to report, the rookies, who have been complaining about not getting enough hitting practice, being told that they would be given an opportunity of "batting their heads off." Things did not work out this way, however.

Hardly had the second batting practice pitcher completed his spiel before Johnson decided to teach Bolton how, where and when to peg with men on bases. Special attention was paid to checking double steals with men on first and third. Before the session finished, Bolton was handling himself like a veteran on this play. Heretofore, he has been cutting loose with his throw to second without even looking at the man on third. Before the drill ended he was first glancing to third to see whether or not the runner had made his break, frequently trapping him on fake throws or checking him long enough so that he be caught at the plate on Jack Hayes' return peg.

Second Baseman Buddy Myer pulled up last night with pains in his "tummy," due to unwise food combinations, and was excused from work today. He is expected to be on hand tomorrow, however, when a long session has been listed.

Biloxi Officials Host At Dinner.

Biloxi officials will be hosts to members of the Washington club party both tomorrow and Friday afternoon. The first of these affairs will be a dinner at the fire engine house for club officials and the gentlemen of the press, while on Friday afternoon Capt. S. P. Edwards, of the local coast guard base, will take the entire party on a boat ride.

The club officials, players and their wives will be taken to the Isle of Caprice, on the Gulf of Mexico, on two Coast Guard boats, where fishing and bathing will occupy the afternoon.

Pitcher Fred Marberry took a longer workout than usual this morning. After being prodded so hard by the Louisville Colonels in Sunday's game, "Firpo" realized that he was not in as good shape as he thought and he promised to make up for lost time from now on. He has told President Clark Griffith of the Nats that if he isn't at top form when the season starts he does not want any pay. That's strong language.

GEORGETOWN BLANKED BY W. & L. NINE IN DEBUT, 8-0

Hilltop Team Limited to Two Hits

Errors Aid Generals to Gain Early Lead Off Noznesky.

Only Scalzi and King Hit Safely for G. U.; None Walk.

Special to The Washington Post.

LEXINGTON, Va., March 25.—Intercollegiate baseball made its 1931 debut in the South here today as Washington and Lee University hammered out an 8-0 victory over Georgetown University of Washington. The game postponed from Monday because of inclement weather, was played under adverse conditions, which did not seem to hamper the hitting or fielding of the Generals.

Jack Jarrett, sophomore mound ace, hurled a one-hit game for seven innings, allowing no free passes, and then Leigh Williams was nicked for another single in the eighth to limit the visitors' hitting to two hits—singles by Scalzi and King.

The Generals, led by Cremin, sophomore outfielder and third baseman, who got three hits in four trips, lashed out nine hits off Noznesky and Coppinger. The Generals scored in the first when Mattox singled to right, and Cremin tripled to left. A quick relay by Morris nailed Cremin at the plate.

Richardson Scores On Cross' Single.

In the second, Richardson singled over short, stole second, and scored on Cross' hit to center. Cross scored on Burke's hit to right. In the fourth Cremin beat out a hit to third, Fitzgerald was safe on a sacrifice and Scalzi's error, Cross walked, and Burke walked, scoring Cremin. Jarrett singled to left, scoring Fitzgerald, and Cross came home on Bozek's wild toss.

In the seventh Jarrett walked and Routon was safe on a sacrifice attempt when Noznesky threw wild. Thibodeau ran for Jarrett. Mattox walked and Cremin singled to short, scoring Thibodeau. Routon scored on Fitzgerald's long fly to left.

CALIGULA'S horse Incitatus shared royal treatment that would put the finest and most valuable modern race horses to shame. In addition to becoming a priest and consul, he was stabled in a palace and fed at a marble manger.

Burton Blair used more than 1,500 separate pieces of wood from seventeen different countries in making his unique table. He did not use a single nail or screw. The top of the table contains a checker board and can be removed. Blair worked for three years before completing it.

Maurice Breslau is only 9 years old, but he has had enough broken bones for several lifetimes. Since the age of 4 his bones have been so brittle that a slight fall means a break. Maurice's legs have been fractured thirteen times and his left arm has been shattered seven times. Recently he broke his leg in school when hurrying to his seat.

—St. John's Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS

ST. JOHN'S PARK offers the Deland Handicap at 6 furlongs as the headliner today. The field of six is well balanced. ELLICE stands out, at the distance, but her racing has been below form. This is the easiest spot the Ellis filly has been placed in, and she should lead all the way. GRACIOUS GIFT is the probable contender. COCK ROBIN looks best of the others, unless SUNNY MORN should wake up. The track continues fast.

Paradise Stock Farm's juvenile, CERVEZA, should win the first race for 2-year-olds. Tuesday he was beaten by Even, but was in trouble all the way, and came from ninth position to second with a rush that should make him a stand-out in this race. SPANFAIR will be the contender. DESERVE, fourth the other day, should get in the money.

FLYING WINGS should repeat in the second race. UNCLE HERMAN won his last race, and probably will be the contender. DECORATION DAY is dangerous. BLACK STOCKINGS ran a good race a few days ago.

ZACHARY, winner last week from Master Durbar, looks best in the third race. R. K. GIRL is the one to beat. She may get so far in front that ZACHARY will fail to get up. MISCHEVIOUS should hold the others safe. ACHTOI LASS should improve.

VALLEY, beaten a head Tuesday by Saratoga Maje, looks like a standout in the fifth race, if the track remains fast. BOLD ROBIN should be the contender. POINCIANA should get in the money.

PAT CALHOUN appears to stand almost alone in the sixth race, towering above the other platers. HOBCAW, TOMBOY and LAFTAR will scramble for the place and show coin, but the others seem impossible.

LADY CLARENCE is best of the large field in the seventh race at a mile and a sixteenth. She probably will have CZARIST to beat, but her last race should almost insure that. LIGHTFOOT DON should get third money.

D. C. NETMEN ADVANCE IN TOURNEY

Shore and Latona to Meet in Baltimore Quarter-Finals.

Special to The Washington Post.

BALTIMORE, Md., March 25.—Frank Shore and Anthony Latona, the two outstanding Washington, D. C., junior tennis players, moved into the quarter-finals of the Evening Sun's annual junior indoor championship here this afternoon on the Fifth Regiment Armory courts. The luck of the draw brings the two together, the match being scheduled to be played tomorrow at 6 o'clock.

Shore had little difficulty in getting by A. Borleis, of Baltimore, 6—2, 6—4, after the Baltimorean had defeated Henry Buchanan, of Washington, 6—3, 6—4. Latona's move into the round of eight was even more decisive, since he afforded Henry Frybush, of Baltimore, only three games in defeating him, 6—2, 6—1.

Gilbert Hunt Reaches Boys Semifinal.

C. Delaney, of Baltimore, eliminated Stewart Taylor, of Episcopal High School, in the fourth round of the junior event, 6—2, 3—6, 6—4.

Gilbert Hunt, captain of Eastern High School's tennis team, of Washington, went into the semifinals of the boys' event by defeating S. Marks, of Baltimore, in a stubbornly contested match, 7—5, 7—5. Tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock he meets D. Williamson, also of Baltimore, in the semifinal match.

LEESBURG TO SEEK BERTH IN LEAGUE

May Enter Northern Virginia Section of Capital Loop.

Special to The Washington Post.

LEESBURG, Va., March 25.—The probability that Leesburg would be represented in the Northern Virginia section of the Capital City Baseball League, sponsored by The Washington Post, loomed strongly tonight after a conference between Jack Tulloch, league director, and Kelley Peach, manager of the Leesburg team.

Peach, a former University of Virginia pitcher, declared that Leesburg would make application for a berth in the league, which may include, besides Alexandria teams, clubs in Warrenton and Winchester. It is planned to play the Leesburg games on Saturday.

The league, which has operated for the past seven years under the auspices of The Washington Post, provides for a play-off among champions of Northern Virginia, Maryland and District of Columbia sections for the league title. The Washington Post annually presents individual gold baseballs to the members of the team winning the play-off.

Tulloch plans a meeting of team managers in the Virginia section to be held at The Washington Post next week.

13 Battery Hopefuls On Takoma High Squad

Coincident with the completion of its baseball schedule, 13 battery candidates for the 1931 Takoma-Silver Spring High School Nine reported to Coach C. J. Bride yesterday for their first instruction and practice.

The new Silver Spring diamond crew will be a pretty green lot of players, but Bride is counting on the sandlot ball the boys have played to keep them near the top of county scholastic ball.

Besides Emmerich, a veteran flinger from last year's team, eight pitchers reported for service: Leizear, White, Loftus, Clark, Robertson, Aiden, Fitzgerald and Thompson. Incipient catchers are Pritchard, Dana, True and Schaeffer.

Twelve games make up the Silver Spring schedule, but two contests will be played against Western High, at a yet to be announced scene and date. The schedule:

April 21, Rockville, at home; 24, Sherwood, there; 28, Hyattsville, there.
March 1, Poolesville, at home; 8, St. Alban's, there; 8, Damascus, at home; 12, Poolesville, there; 15, Hyattsville, at home; 19, Rockville, at home; 22, Sherwood, at home; 26, Damascus, there; 29, St. Alban's, at home.

RETURNS TO ST. JOHN'S.

Brother Eugene, director of St. John's, returned home to the Vermont avenue rectory yesterday from Georgetown University Hospital, where he has been a patient for nearly a week.

Brother Eugene will convalesce for several days after which time he is expected once more to assume the reins of St. John's athletes.

STETSON WALKS THE FIRST TEN MILES!

The first ten miles in a new pair of shoes—whether done in one day or three—are usually a marathon of misery. But wipe that off the slate now!

By a marvelous system of progressive assembly STETSON ends the torture of "breaking in" new shoes. Magic machines soften and limber stubborn, stiff soles and counters... your comfort mileage commences with the first step. Suave, silken ease instead of pangs and pain. Of course your next pair will be swanky STETSONS... for they've always been miles ahead in correctness of design and superfine quality. Your size, sir?

STOCKS MAKE BEST OF NEGATIVE NEWS

Dividend Reductions Fail to Halt Gains in Other Sections of Mart.

New York, March 25 (A.P.).—The stock market made the best of some unfavorable news today and was never worse than irregular, although final quotations showed a preponderance of small net losses.

Dividend reductions by Westinghouse Electric and Baltimore & Ohio had been well advertised in advance, but the failure of steel production to maintain the upward trend in evidence since the first of the year put the damper on bullishness. Nevertheless, several specialties and a few more stable stocks moved forward with a flourish, thus somewhat obscuring the dragging tendencies elsewhere.

Grains were fairly strong and cotton steady, but silver and rubber did not do so well. The former lost all of yesterday's advance, while rubber futures broke to new low prices in response to reports that the output restriction program had failed. The bond market was again a mixed affair.

Auburn Again Favorite.

In a turnover of 2,100,000 shares, the high spots of the stock trading proved to be recent favorites—Auburn Auto, Mullins Manufacturing, Vanadium and McKeesport Tin Plate, with the important addition of American Can. The latter ran up nearly 2 points during the afternoon to a new high, only to lose most of the advance in the late downward swing by the whole market. Continental Can accompanied it higher.

Rails did their best in the morning, but developed mild irregularity. Baltimore & Ohio close a point higher on covering that followed the dividend cut from $7 to $5.

Auburn Auto, after rushing up 11½ points to the new high of 251½, reacted to close with a loss of a point. There were net declines of a point or so in a variety of other stocks, including U. S. and Bethlehem Steels, General Electric, American Telephone and Electric Power & Light. Radio and Union Carbide were firm. Freeport Texas, National Cash Register and Allied Chemical lost a couple of points or more.

Steel Summaries Irregular.

Westinghouse directors pared 25 cents a share from the quarterly common and participating preferred payments, which even so, had not been earned by a wide margin. Shorts were frightened before the meeting by a rumor that the regular dividend of $1.25 would be voted and when the news came out the stock dropped 9 points. Other industrials were slightly unsettled by the break.

The weekly summaries of the steel trade reported irregularities in both demand and prices. Evidently higher quotations have not spurred consumers to get their orders in before the rise becomes effective on April 1, thus leaving the industry on a hand-to-mouth basis.

Railroad net operating income for February is running nearly 50 per cent below 1930 and considerably under January. Some improvement is currently noted, but the action of the Baltimore & Ohio board suggested that the immediate outlook is viewed as none too bright.

Wheat closed with gains of ¼ to 2 cents a bushel for the new crop positions. Corn was up ½ to nearly a cent under better commission house buying and a bullish Government weather report.

Most of the foreign exchanges were nominally lower. Brazil was still under pressure and Far Easterns dipped with silver metal.

TENDENCY OF BONDS IS TOWARD DECLINE

Market Irregular as Rail Issues Feature Sales, Closing Lower.

New York, March 25 (A.P.).—The bond market was irregular today with a declining tendency noticeable among the more representative issues.

Railroad obligations figured conspicuously in the trading and most of them closed lower although temporary firmness appeared at times. The reduction in the annual dividend rate of the Baltimore & Ohio from $7 to $5 on the common stock attracted attention to the issues of that carrier, most of which closed the day lower although the volume was not particularly heavy. Earnings reports of the first eighteen railroads to report February earnings showed a decrease of 48 per cent from that month last year in net operating income. Some decrease had been expected so that it is questionable just how much influence this fact had.

The price trend of foreign issues was definitely downward. Australian obligations were conspicuously weak following cables from London which suggested that the commonwealth government might have to default on its interest payments if a new loan were not negotiated.

The extent of the decline may be realized from the fact that such bonds as Antioquia Third 7s of 1957, Brazilian 7s of 1952, several Chilean issues, both issues of Colombian 6s, and several issues of Sao Paulo bonds were among those with net losses of 1 point or more. United States Government bonds made mixed changes.

Obligations of Domestic Corporations, other than railroads, divided their net change about evenly between gains and losses.

A syndicated headed by Lehman Brothers was the successful bidder today for $6,760,160 of 4¼ per cent bonds of Essex County, New Jersey. Their bid was a premium of $290,000 over par value.

TELEPHONE INCOME INCREASES $40,716

Net Figures of Capital Firm for 1931 Period Are Higher Than 1930.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Balance net income of Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. for February was $128,749, a gain of $40,716 over February, 1930. This was shown by the company's statement of operations for last month filed yesterday with the Public Utilities Commission. Balance net income for the two months ending February 8, totaled $265,182, as compared with $199,696 for the corresponding period last year.

Telephone operating revenues in February were $736,331, with operating expenses of $513,439. After deducting taxes and uncollectible, the total operating income for the month was $165,093. Telephone operating revenues for the first two months of the year were $1,497,560, with expenses of $1,043,480, leaving, after deductions for taxes and uncollectible, a total operating income for this period of $337,689.

More Taxes Paid.

Taxes during February were $53,066, an increase of $9,537 over the same month last year, while taxes for the first two months of 1931 amounted to $106,862, an advance of $15,507 over the comparative period in 1930.

Capital expenditures for new plant and equipment added to the company's system in the District of Columbia during the two months ended February 28, amounted to $333,497. Gross retirements during this period were $203,181, making net additions $130,316. Net additions to plant for the twelve months ended February 28, totaled $60,480.

On February 28, Washington was served by 170,088 telephones, 1,608 having been added to the system since January 1. During the month telephone users made 17,066,341 originating calls.

Carpel Dividend Declared.

At a recent meeting of the executive committee of the Carpel Corporation, the regularly quarterly dividend of 37½ cents per share, with an extra of 12½ cents, were declared, payable on the common stock of the company April 1, to stockholders of record March 25. It was reported that earnings for the first two months of 1931 are expected to show a considerable increase over those for the same period last year.

Women Bankers Elect.

All officers of the Bank Women's Club of Washington were reelected at the annual meeting last night. They are: President, Miss Mabel V. Royce, Washington Loan & Trust Co.; vice president, Miss Judith M. Fishburn, Chase Securities Corporation; recording secretary, Miss Eleanor Dankmyer, Security Savings & Commercial Bank; corresponding secretary, Miss Mary Craven, District National Bank; treasurer, Miss Eleanor Watkins, First National Bank of Alexandria, Va.; historian, Miss Rose L. Royce, Washington Loan & Trust Co.; members of the board of governors, Miss Mary J. Winfree, Commercial National Bank; Miss Louise M. Mitchell, formerly of the Federal-American National Bank; Miss Harriett Barrett, Riggs National Bank; Miss Virginia Marks, Glover & Flather; Mrs. Laila M. Sloat, National Metropolitan Bank.

Aubrey O. Dooley, assistant trust officer, Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co., was declared winner of the public speaking contest for members of the public speaking class of Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking, in finals held last night at the chapter rooms in the Becker building. As such, he receives the silver trophy donated by Vice President Wilmer J. Waller, of the foregoing bank, as a prize in this contest.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, March 25 (A.P.).—The board of governors of the New York Stock Exchange today denied a petition of members to close the exchange Saturday, April 4, the day preceding Easter. The exchange, however, will be closed Good Friday, April 3. The securities market of the New York Produce Exchange will be open Saturday, April 4, but will close on Good Friday.

The Banco de la Nacion Argentina, which has been making regular shipments of gold to New York, has withdrawn from the gold conversion office at Buenos Aires $8,064,902 additional metal for shipment to New York in connection with exchange and government fiscal operations. This will increase the total sent here from Argentina since January 1 to more than $25,000,000.

The first legislation embodying details for working out the international plan for regulation of tin output is promised by one of the federated Malay States within a few days, private cable advices received in New York said. The senior warden of mines announced that tin producers of the federated Malay States voted 68 per cent in favor of the regulation proposals to 12 per cent against the plan.

AUTOMOBILES—M. J. McAneeny, president of Hudson Motor Co., said sales during the first three weeks of March exceeded figures for the first three weeks of February by 38 per cent. He added that the company's weekly factory pay roll is the largest in eight months.

ELECTRICITY — Continued improvement in production of electric light and power for the week ended March 21 over the like period of 1930 was shown in figures published by the National Electric Light Association. There was a less than seasonal decline kilowatt hours from the previous week and the total was only 2.3 per cent under the aggregate for the like week of last year. For the week ended March 14 the decline from 1930 was 3.4 per cent.

STEEL — Output of the country's steel mills failed to show a gain this week for the first time since the beginning of the year. Iron Age reported production unchanged at 57 per cent, while Steel said there was a loss of 1 per cent to 56 per cent of capacity. Iron Age added that construction work is expected to contribute substantially to demand in coming weeks, while the trend of automobile output was regarded as encouraging.

TEXTILES—The textile industry, in the final days of the first quarter, is fulfilling its promise of improvement made at the beginning of the term, Textile World says. Operations thus far have been about 10 per cent higher than during the last half of 1930, and the publication adds that more important still is the reserve of orders which is being built up, particularly in cotton goods, "which promises a more stable rate of activity over the year than has existed for several years."

NEW SCENIC ROUTE PLANNED IN VIRGINIA

Highway to Be Built Along Blue Ridge Mountain Summit Soon.

One of the most scenic highways of the country that may ultimately extend for 150 miles will be built along the summit of the Blue Ridge Mountains throughout the length of the Shenandoah National Park area in Virginia. Plans for the construction of this drive are being completed by the National Park Service in cooperation with the United States Bureau of Public Roads.

In this connection, decision was reached to limit main road construction in the park area to this particular project. Already there are roads just outside the proposed park boundary and completely surrounding it, and in addition two lateral roads cross the area. These are the Lee Highway between Sperryville and Luray and the Spottswood Trail connecting Standardsville and Elkton. The tentative plan to construct another lateral either by way of the Rapidan or the Robertson River Valleys to meet the ridge road has been abandoned.

Plans Follow Investigation.

These final plans are based upon recommendations of Chief Architect Thomas C. Vint and Assistant Landscape Architect Charles E. Peterson, of the National Park Service and followed a thorough investigation by them of local conditions. Preliminary surveys have already been made by the Bureau of Public Roads.

While the proposed highway eventually will follow the skyline of the ridge from Front Royal to Rock Fish Gap, between Afton and Waynesboro, the first unit to be taken up for construction is that portion 50 miles long, between Panorama (Thornton Gap) and Swift Run Gap. At the latter point the road will connect with the Spottswood Trail.

Will Cover Area Thoroughly.

The highway system as proposed under this general development plan will cover the park area more thoroughly than any in the western parks, as it is believed logical to go farther in road development in an area where travel is bound to be heavy owing to its location in or near the more densely populated portion of the United States. Further high-standard road developments, however, will be consistently opposed, since one of the major duties of the National Park Service is to preserve and protect the natural conditions of the wilderness.

Authority for the construction of the highway in the Shenandoah area before the actual establishment of the park was given to the National Park Service that employment might be provided for the sufferers from drought and adverse economic conditions in the Shenandoah Valley. The people in this mountainous area are in dire straits, and some are threatened with actual starvation. Like all mountain people they have a sturdy independence, and as a rule, they will not accept charity. The construction of the new road at this time will make it possible to offer them employment instead of charity.

Witness in Killing Case Is Arrested

Man, Who Previously Fled From Madison County Officers, Nabbed.

Special to The Washington Post.

Luray, Va., March 25.—Schuyler Dodson, of Madison County, today furnished thrills in the Page County court here, where he had been summoned as a witness for the State in the case of David Sours charged with the murder of Edward Buracker near here on March 5.

Within ten minutes after Dodson had left the grand jury room, where Sours was indicted for Buracker's murder, he was arrested by Sheriff Lucas, of Page County, upon advice from Sheriff Hall, of Madison County. Some time ago Dodson escaped officers after they had him under arrest.

Dodson was lodged in the Luray Jail by Sheriff Lucas and is being held for the Madison officers. Friends of Sours, it is charged, knowing that Dodson would give damaging evidence against the alleged slayer of Buracker, tipped off the Madison authorities that Dodson would be in Luray today.

Petersburg Man Dies.

Petersburg, Va., March 25 (Special).—John Thomas Conner, 57, died today at the Petersburg Hospital. For the past six months he had been manager of the bowling alleys at the Petersburg Y. M. C. A. He is survived by two sisters and one brother.

Race-Bet Winner Hunts His Ticket

Baltimore Man and Wife Search Frantically for $5,900 Pasteboard.

Baltimore, March 25 (A.P.).—Peter Balko, a laborer, believes he will be richer by $5,900 if he can find a bit of pasteboard he has mislaid—one end of an Irish sweepstakes ticket—and he and his wife conducted a frantic search today.

He said he bought the ticket, entitling him to a chance in the drawing made in Dublin yesterday. The stub of the ticket was presumably forwarded to Dublin by the seller. Mr. Balko's stub, according to dispatches, was drawn, making him winner of a consolation prize.

Mr. Balko interrupted his search to express the fear that his wife had destroyed the ticket when she washed his clothes. She had her own opinion "of a man who would throw away $5,900." Mr. Balko came to this country 22 years ago. He wants to know very much what a man does who has lost his sweepstakes ticket.

Coroner's Jury Absolves Man.

Hagerstown, Md., March 25 (Special).—A coroner's jury has held that Abram Swisher, 27, farmer, killed while in a friendly wrestling bout with Raymond Needy, came to his death through accident and exonerated Needy of blame.

MOTHER TO ESCORT APPLE FETE QUEEN

English Girl Is Preparing for Journey to Virginia Next Month.

Winchester, Va., March 25 (A.P.).—The queen of the Shenandoah apple blossom festival this year "truly will be an international figure," Nelson F. Richards, director of the festival, said today in an announcement that Miss Patricia D. Morton had returned to her home in Winchester, England, to prepare for the trip to America for her coronation.

She will be accompanied by her mother, Mrs. E. J. Stroud. Mr. Richards is now making selections for the committee to represent Winchester and escort the queen from New York to Winchester, Va.

Miss Morton is the daughter of a distinguished English soldier, Capt. Herbert Claude Morton, who served in the Boxer uprising in China in 1900, and who was killed in his majesty's service in France in 1914. Mrs. Morton married Lieut. Gen. E. J. Stroud, C. B. M. G., commandant of the Royal Marines, at Plymouth, in 1918.

Descendant of Knight.

The young queen is a descendant of a knight who came to England with William the Conqueror, and was educated at St. Swithin's School, in Winchester, England. She has studied in France, Spain and now is studying in Germany. She is an accomplished linguist.

Mr. Richards announced that Luther S. Hale and Leslie D. Kline will compose a committee in charge of the school parade on the opening day of the festival. Garland Wuarles, who directed this department last year, now is directing the pageant which will be a leading feature on both days of the festival.

The Winchester Chamber of Commerce is printing 15,000 historic maps and descriptive booklets of the City of Winchester for the festival. Six floats for the parade were entered this week, and a committee has been named to arrange for the entertainment and facilities for motion-picture men.

Wants Place in Parade.

The High School Cadet Band, of Spencer, W. Va., applied yesterday for a place in both parades, and negotiations were under way to have the Twentieth Marine Band brought to the city for the festival.

Present indications are that the trees will be in bloom between April 22 and April 29.

Auxiliary to Warrenton Legion Post Plans Show

Special to The Washington Post.

Warrenton, Va., March 25.—The Woman's Auxiliary of the American Legion, John D. Sudduth Post No. 72, will stage "Sixty Miles an Hour," a musical comedy, March 30 and 31 in the high school auditorium.

Parts will be taken by local talent. The players are now being coached, and the chorus is being trained.
